INVESTIGATION OF LIQUOR CHARGES IN COUNTY UNDER WAYProsecuting Attorney Questions
Sheriff Willmann's
Deputies in Regard to Prohibition Enforcement.INQUIRY ORDERED BY ATTORNEY-GENERALOne Deputy Denies He Had Been Directed to Destroy Still as Claimed by His Superior.

Prosecuting Attorney Fred Mueller of St. Louis County today began an investigation of charges against Sheriff John Willmann in connection with the operation of whisky stills in the county, particularly the large still found Sunday night, on the farm of Louis A. Wolfberger on the Olive Street road. As was exclusively stated in the home edition of yesterday's Post-Dispatch, Justice of the Peace A. H. Werremeyer of Wellington charged that Willmann knew of the still nine days before it was raided Sunday night by Chief Federal Prohibition Enforcement Agent E. J. Hoover.

The prosecuting attorney took the statements of Hoover, Justice Werremeyer, Deputy Sheriff Robert Goerke, A. E. Stuckman, who resigned yesterday as Deputy Sheriff, after accompanying Deputy Agent Hoover on the raid on the Wolfberger farm. The prosecutor said his investigation was not yet completed and he probably would make no announcement concerning it until after reporting to the Attorney-General.

Says Evidence Disappeared.

Stuckman, who yesterday gave a written notice to the sheriff saying he was resigning for "reasons best known to yourself," has been telling his friends for some time that he was disgusted with the way the sheriff's office has been dealing with liquor traffic since Willmann came into office. Among other things, he said that stills which he had contested and had disappeared from the property room in the sheriff's office where they were being held as evidence. Stuckman's resignation was accepted and he was appointed Deputy Constable by Constable Schoenlein.

Deputy Sheriff Goerke today, in response to Sheriff Willmann's statement that he had been delegated to destroy the still found on the Wolfberger farm, said that Willmann had not instructed him to destroy the still.

"Willmann did not tell me to do anything in connection with the still," said Goerke. "He and Werremeyer argued about whose duty it was to raid the barn, but they said nothing to me."

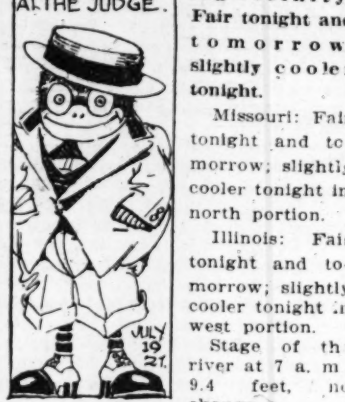

When Willmann came into office he was raising the average of four stills a week," said Goerke. "I told him where the stills were located and instructed him how to go about getting the evidence and making raids. Along about January he had issued orders that no more raids were to be made without his permission."

"I turned in on stills regularly, but Willmann would say, 'Wait a while, I'll do nothing more would be done about it. I finally quit turning in stills.'"

Out of nine stills confiscated and taken to the sheriff's office, only three remain there. I wonder what became of the other six. "Last Friday I accompanied Justice Werremeyer to a place on the Ladue road where the Justice had been informed a still was being operated. When we got close to the place we found fermenting mash, but we made no raid as we had no search warrant. The next morning Willmann called me for having made the trip. I do not know how he found out about it. Neither Justice Werremeyer, nor myself had told him about it."

Mueller who reported to the attorney general the charges against Sheriff Willmann, directed Mueller to investigate the matter immediately and thoroughly and to report at Jefferson City in person. "It has been told, a 20-foot copper still with a capacity for making 250 gallons of whisky a day, together with four concrete 8000-gallon vats, partly filled with fermenting mash, were found in a barn on the Wolfberger farm on the Olive Street road, between Spode and Grov roads. Wolfberger said he had rented the barn to two Italians six weeks ago and that they told him they were going to raise pigs."

Justice Informed Federal Agent. Justice Werremeyer informed Hoover that he pointed out the still to

NEW YORK ARRIVES
SAFELY IN ENGLANDSpecial Cable to the Post-Dispatch
and New York World.

COWES, Eng., July 18.—After a 33-day voyage from New York, John B. Kelly's schooner-rigged yacht Diablos, which is only 39 feet long on the waterline, has arrived safely here. Kelly, whose wife sailed with him, said that for the first 30 days it was a stormy experience and there were some thrilling moments, especially during a hurricane in which the mast was almost carried away.

None of the crew of four is any worse for the experience, neither Mrs. Kelly nor the couple's two companions, Egmont Arens, and a young Danish sailor, showing any effects of the strain.

Describing the voyage, Kelly said: "For the first hundred miles Washburn Nutting, who came aboard in a typhoon last year, accompanied us, and Sidney Breeze came out with us to Long Island in his yawl. We came south, round the Cape of Good Hope, and made the voyage in 400 miles. For the first 10 days we encountered gales and were caught in a hurricane."

"We had a very trying time and thought we'd lose our mast. We felt the boat jumping as though the steering gear was coming right up through the wheelbox. She weathered the storm splendidly, however, and we came through without loss of anything at all."

"My wife behaved splendidly. She took her turn at the wheel and helped in many other ways. Our voyage finished in a series of calms. For several days we didn't see a single ship. After the hurricane there was no exciting incident during the remainder of the voyage."

ENFORCED VACATIONS BEGIN
IN CITY STREET DEPARTMENTDirector Fisk to Lay Off 1000 Men
in Relays of 200 Two Weeks

Notice was posted today by Director of Streets and Sewers Fisk that 200 men of his department, mostly street and sewer cleaners, will be laid off during the next two weeks. The director plans to lay off 1000 in all in relays of 200 two weeks at a time. On June 1 he discharged 140 employees outright.

The retrenchment is necessary, he says, because of the cut of $537,017.95 for his department. He asked for $2,995,326 and was given $2,458,308.05.

Director of Public Safety McKelvey also is laying off his men in relays for the same reason. The appropriations in all departments were cut and the forces are being reduced.

SACKS ACQUIRES CONTROLLING
INTEREST IN HOLLAND BUILDING

William Sacks, a former employee of the St. Louis postoffice, who gained wealth in the Oklahoma oil field, yesterday acquired a controlling interest in the Holland Building, a 12-story building on the east side of Seventh street, between Olive and Pine streets, from the Union Electric Light and Power Co. Sacks recently organized the Republic National Bank and purchased the building on Locust street between Seventh and Eighth streets occupied by the bank. Last year he purchased the Victoria Building on the northwest corner of Eighth and Locust streets.

HE HAD NO HEARINGFormer Assistant Secretary of Navy Brands Report of Republicans as Political Effort.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Former Secretary Daniels and Franklin D. Roosevelt, former Assistant Secretary of the Navy, are denounced for the methods used in investigating the wartime scandal among enlisted men at the Newport training station. In the majority report of a Senate subcommittee, made public today.

The charges made by clergymen of Newport, R. I., and the Providence Journal, the report says, "have been proved to the satisfaction of the committee" and both the clergy and the Journal, says the report, "deserve the thanks of the people at large."

At the same time today, Roosevelt, who was the Democratic candidate for Vice President last year, issued a statement declaring that Senators Daniels and Roosevelt, who were members of the majority of the investigating committee, had issued their findings without giving him a hearing after promising to do so, which Roosevelt in his statement contends, "shows a premeditated and unfair purpose of seeking what they mistakenly believe to be a partisan political advantage."

Minority Report to Be Filed.
Senator King of Utah, the Democratic member of the investigating committee, will file a minority report later.

Most of the details of the Newport scandal, as it is disclosed in the investigation, are of an unimportant nature. The crux of the majority report charges is that, with the knowledge of Daniels and Roosevelt, enlisted men of the navy were improperly used as participants in the financial condition of the concern and report back at an adjourned meeting next Tuesday night.

Seebert G. Jones, attorney for the meeting, stated the purpose of the meeting, which, among other things, was also necessary to take some action to add the finances of the company, explaining that the architect's original estimate of $70,000 to remodel the corner at Seventh and Olive streets for the candy shop was exceeded by $25,000 in the first two months of the work, and that everything in connection with estimating the place had exceeded first estimates.

He intimated that the company had a proposal to consolidate with another concern in St. Louis and that its indebtedness could be liquidated by stock in the other concern. He added that nothing definite had been accomplished to effect this consolidation.

Following Jones' remarks, a demand was made that the company be financially audited, and the company's auditor arose to make one, when he was interrupted with a motion creating the Stockholders' Committee of Five.

By the Associated Press.

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., July 19.—Old New York Central engine No. 999, once the holder of the world speed record, has been restored to the shop to its old appearance, with her tender bearing the old legend, "Empire State Express." It left yesterday afternoon for Corning, N. Y., and will run light to New York, picking up the train carrying the old locomotive, the Dewitt Clinton.

It will then proceed to Chicago and will be placed on exhibition with the Dewitt Clinton.

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., July 19.—Application for employment being greater than for many years, the Chicago & Alton issued new age restrictions today. No one is to be given employment if more than 45 years of age or less than 21. Formerly the age limit was 50. This was waived during the war.

HOUSE CONCURS IN CUT IN STATE INCOME TAX RATESenate Bill Reducing Levy From 1½ to 1 Per Cent Approved, 80 to 47.From a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, July 19.—The House today by a vote of 80 to 47 passed a Senate bill proposing to reduce the State income tax from 1½ to 1 per cent.

Proponents of the measure, which had been bitterly fought in the House of Representatives from purely agricultural counties which pay very little income tax, had feared that the bill was doomed, but frequent use of the Governor's name was made in speeches by them in the final hours of debate on it today, to the end that, as an administration measure, it got eight or ten votes needed to assure a constitutional majority of 72, requisite to final passage.

In a second vote, taken on the emergency clause, all others being cast on that.

The House then took up consideration of proposed reductions in the inheritance tax after which a reduction in the State rate on direct property taxes is to be considered.

Representative Whitaker of Hickory opened the debate carried over from yesterday. He warned against too much tax reduction, picturing the possibilities of a war-torn country, Representative Shelman of De Kalb, protesting "against the continual yells of so-called farmers here about 'taxes'."

"I am a farmer that pulls out of bed at 4 o'clock in the morning into a pair of blue denim and cowhide shoes without socks and hit it up until 8 at night. I want to say that as farmers who have farmed and not speculating, though we were hit hard, this tax should be reduced."

around the putting greens all during his round while Mitchell did not miss a holeable putt.At the seventeenth hole, 285 yards long, Mitchell's tee shot carried to the green and rolled out of bounds.
He incurred a two-stroke penalty and had to take six on the hole. At the eighteenth hole, with a large gallery banked around the green, Mitchell's second shot was sliced
and struck a spectator, bounding back within five feet of the putting green.

TOKIO, July 18.—It is intimated

leading Oriental Power, is likely to submit to the proposed conference
over Far Eastern questions the abandonment of extraterritoriality in China and also to ask the fixation of emigration rights to countries like Canada, Australia, New Zealand and Indo-China, and in general raise the question of racial equality.The impression is growing that an endeavor will be made to accelerate the settlement of matters of interest to America such as the Yaw and Shantung question, so they will be disposed of before the opening of the conference and thus be eliminated
from the discussions.It was said at the Foreign Office
today that a report had been received from Ambassador Shidehara
in Washington, outlining the views of Secretary of State Hughes regarding the proposed conference. Apparently, however, a formal reply to Japan's request for definition of the scope of the conference is being awaited. The newspaper describes Ambassador Shidehara's report as indefinite, and Japan's policy appears to be to endeavor to obtain a prelimi-

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Mrs.
Emma C. Bergdoll, of Philadelphia, today told a House Committee investigating the escape of Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, her slacker son,
that she gave $5000 to Major Bruce Campbell, an army officer at Governor's Island, for use "among high officials at Washington" to help obtain his freedom.Campbell, said, first demanded $100,000, but she refused.Mrs. Bergdoll said she took the money to the island and handed it to Grover, by whom it was turned over to Campbell. Campbell, she said, told her that he had passed the money to another officer for the purpose intended.Maj. Campbell recently told the committee that he did not receive $1 from the Bergdolls. He has been summoned from Camp Pike to answer the charges of Mrs. Bergdoll.Mrs. Bergdoll said she did not know the name of the man mentioned by Campbell as having received the money, but asserted "he was an agent of the Government.""Campbell told me he could not accept any money for himself," said Mrs. Bergdoll, "but that he wanted the $100,000 for the higher-ups at Washington and New York."

Through Joseph F. Houlihan, bookkeeper for Wassermann Broth-

that Major Campbell had deposited $4500 in cash with the firm on Feb.
10, 1920. Mrs. Bergdoll had testified that the payment to Campbell was made late in January or early in February of that year.The ledger account showed that from Feb. 10 to June 30, Campbell lost $5415 on a series of trades. His account was then closed. Houlihan testified that Campbell still owed the firm $415.Campbell's regular bank account

By the Associated Press.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., July 19.— Maj. Bruce Campbell, director of education at the Camp Pike College and formerly counsel for prisoners of war at Governor's Island, N. Y., described statements made by Mrs.
Emma Bergdoll of Philadelphia before a House investigating committee
at Washington today, charging him with accepting a bribe to help her son, Grover Bergdoll, get free, as a "lie out of the whole cloth."Maj. Campbell, when informed of Mrs. Bergdoll's statements, declared that, testifying before the same House committee two months ago,
Mrs. Bergdoll had said under oath that Maj. Campbell had not received a cent in connection with Bergdoll's escape and that he had had no connection whatever with the case.Relative to Mrs. Bergdoll's testimony as to a gift of $5000, Maj.
Campbell said:"I never had such a conversation with Mrs. Bergdoll or her son. I was counsel for Grover Bergdoll when he was tried before a courtmartial,
but following his conviction I had nothing further to do with the case.""My connection with this case did not come about through any activity on my own part. I was assigned as counsel to defend prisoners of war and automatically became his counsel when he was called for trial. When Bergdoll was released from Governor's Island I knew nothing about it until after he had gone."Maj. Campbell said that he had a sworn copy of Mrs. Bergdoll's original testimony before the House committee in which she said that he had had nothing to do with her son's release from Governor's Island and his later escape from the country.The officer said that he had report at Washington at once and that he would leave as soon as possible.MOTHER GOOSE SHOP.

DE VALERA EXPECTS PROPOSALS FROM LLOYD GEORGE AT MEETING THURSDAY

Irish Republican Leader Marking Time Pending Conversation; Report Proposition Will Have Been Approved by Cabinet for Next Conference.

CRAIG AND PARTY BACK IN BELFAST

Secretary of Delegation Declares Departure From London Does Not Mean Rupture; Has Occurred; Expects Call Again.

By the Associated Press. LONDON, July 19.—Eamonn de Valera, the Irish Republican leader, and his colleagues who accompanied him to London for the conference with Prime Minister Lloyd George, in the effort to lay the basis of a tripartite conference for a solution of the Irish question, are marking time in anticipation of the conversation of De Valera and the Prime Minister, Thursday morning.

It is reported that by the time Lloyd George will have certain proposals to present to the Irish leader which will have received the approval of the British Cabinet.

The spokesman of the Irish delegates today characterized their attitude as "still not unhelpful." While all the rest of the Ulster officials had shifted their scene of action to Belfast, the Marquis of Londonderry, the Ulster Minister of Education, was received by King George this afternoon at Buckingham Palace.

Later it was reported that Gen. Smuts, who talked with members of the British Cabinet during the morning, might go to Belfast in the capacity of a nonpartisan intermediary. De Valera and his party made it known today that they considered it probable they would return to Dublin for the week-end.

By the Associated Press. BELFAST, July 19.—The return to Belfast of Sir James Craig, the Ulster Premier, and the members of his Cabinet who have been with him in London in connection with the Irish peace move, must not be taken as a rupture of the negotiations, it was declared today by Col. Spencer, secretary of the delegation, on its arrival here. It is thought, indeed, that the delegation will be recalled to London next week.

None of the Cabinet Members would have anything to say for publication.

Eamonn de Valera is regarded by the Ulster Unionists as a visionary and the feeling in Unionist circles here is that no discussions among all the parties concerned in the Irish settlement will be possible until he is considerably modified in his position.

The attitude of the Ulster Premier is cordially approved by the Ulster Unionists in general. "There was never any other outcome of the negotiations possible," says the Belfast News Letter. "We shall have nothing to do with any settlement terms that infringe upon or diminish the status of our Parliament."

On the other hand, the Irish News, which voices the views of Joseph Devlin, Nationalist, says: "If the six specially chosen Ulster counties are to self-determine themselves into ruinous conflict with the rest of Ireland, why deny the claim of any county to self-determine itself out of association with secessionists?"

Craig Intimates He Will Not Compromise Ulster's Rights.

By the Associated Press. LONDON, July 19.—Irish negotiations appear to have reached a deadlock in so far as they concern a tripartite conference between David Lloyd George, the British Prime Minister; Eamonn de Valera, Irish Republican leader; and Sir James Craig, Premier of Ulster.

This developed late last night, when Sir James, as he departed for Belfast, issued a statement on the subject of self-determination which is interpreted to mean that he will not compromise on any matters pertaining to Ulster's political rights.

While the statement has made a deep impression upon political circles in many quarters, it is not accepted as final, and hope is expressed that the negotiations for such a conference are not yet ended. The Ulster Premier's statement said that he was "returning home well satisfied with the efforts being made toward peace," and that De Valera "has broken his silence and cleared the ground by his statement to the press that he proposes to found his claim on recognition of the rights of self-determination."

"Self-Determination." He asserts that the people of Northern Ireland have "determined" their own Parliament, "which was opened by his gracious Majesty in

Cruiser Sunk by Airmen After All-Day Bombing

Frankfurt Survives 11 Direct Hits and Then Goes Down When Explosion in Water Lifts Her Up Several Feet.

By the Associated Press. NEWPORT NEWS, Va., July 19.—The former German cruiser Frankfurt is lying on the floor of the Atlantic today with the six other former enemy craft disposed of in recent bombing and target practice off the Virginia Capes as the result of a successful attack by army and navy fliers yesterday, which continued all day before the cruiser was sent to the bottom. Surviving 11 direct hits, six with small bombs of 250 to 300 pounds scored during the first phase of the attack, and five with heavier bombs, up to 600 pounds, the cruiser received its death blow from a 600 pounder hurled from one of a squadron of six army Martin planes, which proceeded to the attack from Langley Field, Va., late in the day.

Although failing to hit the target, as observed from one of the naval vessels at the scene, the bomber with such terrific force on striking the water a few feet from the starboard bow that the Frankfurt was literally lifted up several feet. As the vessel began to settle gradually by the head, the end was hastened by two more 600-pound bombs placed close to the port bow by another army plane. The cruiser disappeared 28 minutes after the fatal blow.

Hit Scored in First Attack. A total of 78 bombs were launched at the Frankfurt by naval and army aircraft which came 85 miles from Hampton Roads and Langley Field. The navy planes were the first to attack, beginning at 9:12 a. m., and one direct hit was scored by the first division of F-5-L seaplanes to go into action.

When the official observers went aboard at the conclusion of the first phase of the operations with the small bombs, they found that besides the two bombs sent to explode on board, four others had struck the craft, but failed to explode.

person," and that De Valera and his associates, by standing as candidates for the Northern Parliament and submitting to the policy of "no participation," had admitted the right of self-determination on the part of Ulster.

"This was the only issue placed before the electorate," he adds, "and no politician who represents the largest majority which, so far as I am aware, ever has been returned in a general election in any part of the world." He declares that it now remains for De Valera and the British people to agree upon the administration of the area outside of Ulster.

The people of Northern Ireland, he continues, are not in any way claim to "determine" the terms of settlement which Great Britain and Southern Ireland may make, and adds a ray of hope by concluding: "When this is accomplished I can promise cordial co-operation on equal terms with Southern Ireland in any matter affecting our common interests."

"Having reached the present stage, I go back to Ireland to carry on the practical work of the Government. I feel that our interests are ably represented in the Imperial Parliament, and, of course, our services are available at any moment."

It is from these concluding paragraphs that The Times gleams some hope.

Closed Creameries in Martial Law Area to Reopen.

By the Associated Press. DUBLIN, July 19.—Commandant Barry, Chief Republican Irish Officer in the martial law area, announced last night that General Sir Nevill Macready, British Military Commander in Ireland, had agreed to remove all restrictions on "fair" and "market" and permit closed creameries to reopen.

There is a noticeable reduction in ordinary crime over there.

ALIES SIGNED ON SEPARATE TREATY WITH GERMANY

Harding Administration Seeks Informally to Find if There Is Objection to Such Course by the U. S.

WOULD INCLUDE VERSAILLES RIGHTS

Step Alternative to Submission of Existing Pact With Reservations; Objections Not Anticipated.

By DAVID LAWRENCE. A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch. (Copyright, 1921.) WASHINGTON, July 19.—The United States Government has entered into informal discussions with Great Britain, France, Italy and Japan to determine whether they, as members of the group known as the "Big Four," have any objection to the making of a separate treaty between the United States and Germany which shall include in its text the same rights and privileges granted the United States in the economic and reparations clauses of the Versailles treaty.

The step, which has been in process for several days, is the alternative to the submission of the Versailles pact with reservations, and if the allied Powers interpose no objections, or no legal complications arise, the "irreconcilables" in the American Senate will have their way to the extent that the original Versailles pact will not be submitted to them again, while the pre-treaty element will have the satisfaction of knowledge that approximately 89 per cent of the Versailles pact will be included in the new treaty to be negotiated with Germany.

Objections Not Anticipated. Objections from the allies are not anticipated, though it is known that France would have liked to see America sign the Versailles treaty and ratify it, even though the reservations excluded the League covenant and the enforcement clauses of the treaty.

France believes the moral effect of America's signature on the Versailles treaty is a valuable asset in making Germany understand that the partnership of Powers begun during the war has by no means been dissolved.

On the other hand, the answer made here is that Germany cannot possibly derive any impression of division in the allied ranks because in the new German-American treaty containing clauses of reparations all identical with those in the Versailles pact.

Germany's obligation to pay for the war will be just as much stressed in the new German-American treaty as in the Versailles pact. There is in reality little difference in substance between the submission of the Versailles pact with reservations and the alternative now being considered, the making of a separate treaty with Germany.

But there is a difference in form and it is sufficient to cool the wrath of the "irreconcilables" and make number three a general plan for the preservation of world peace either by a league or an association of nations or some other kind of international conference body which shall substitute counsel and discussion for war.

Diplomatic Conversations Relative to Treaty at Berlin.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, July 19.—Diplomatic conversations relative to a treaty agreement with Germany to follow up the purposes of the peace resolution are understood to be in progress at Berlin between Loring Drexel, head of the American Commission there, and the German Foreign Office. Officials here would not reveal today, however, the exact nature of the negotiations.

Just now the allies have more to gain than lose by agreeing to America's wishes. The funding of allied debt over a period of years means more to the allies than technical questions and abstract rights. The consent of the allies is confidently expected.

exchanged between the United States and the allied Powers will be sufficient to safeguard America's rights and, when once those rights have been secured, the United States Government will feel free to lay the text of the new treaty before the German Government.

Of course, Germany might balk and try to re-open the economic clauses of the treaty for general discussion, but Germany would soon be told that the matters are not open for parley and debate but are closed. Germany, too, has more to gain than lose by accepting the American viewpoint, so everybody in the Government feels certain that, when the allied consent has been obtained, the rest will be smooth sailing.

The Harding foreign policy is slowly being evolved. Step number one is settling our economic relationship with Europe and step number

RETAIL COST OF FOOD HAD SLIGHT DECLINE IN JUNE

Prices for Average Family Showed Small Decrease as Compared to May.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, July 19.—The retail cost of food to the average family declined three-tenths of one per cent in June as compared with prices in May, while wholesale food prices declined slightly less than one per cent, according to statements today by the Department of Labor. Declines were noted in retail prices of sugar, plate beef, butter, cheese, rib roast, canned salmon, fresh milk, bread, macaroni, baked beans, canned tomatoes, coffee and prunes.

Among articles which increased in retail price were potatoes, flour and eggs. The price of flour products showed a decline of three and a half per cent. Wholesale food prices dropped equally, while declines in the wholesale prices of clothing and miscellaneous commodities were less than one per cent.

Dr. Theodore R. Dodsley of 1964 Burd avenue died at 10 o'clock last night at St. John's Hospital. Dr. Dodsley, who was 44 years old, had been confined in the hospital suffering from sleeping sickness. He is survived by his wife.

3 ST. LOUISANS HELD IN CHICAGO

Their Arrest Follows an Attempted Saloon Holdup.

CHICAGO, July 19.—After an alleged attempt to hold up the saloon of John Murphy at Seventy-ninth and State streets early today, detectives arrested four men who were driving a stolen Ford roadster. The four men, who said they were David Blackwell, 21 years old, of 6206 Alabama avenue; Charles A. Wilson, 43, of 6207 Michigan avenue, and Oscar Landman, 27, of 117 East Courtland street, all of St. Louis, and Frank Chambers of Chicago, are held at the Detective Bureau.

Detectives saw the automobile without the license plates of St. Louis. When the men saw the detectives they drove west on Seventy-ninth street and were overtaken at Halsted street.

The detectives opened fire with revolvers when the four men refused to stop.

40 Per Cent Cut Accepted and Workers Remain Happy

Rent for Company Houses and Cost of Necessaries Reduced Like Percentage by Manganesse Firm at Dunbar, Pa.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., July 19.—A 40 per cent wage cut accepted, and still the employees of the American Manganesse Co. at Dunbar, a furnace town near here, are happy. The answer is to be found in a successful co-operation, experiment in community co-operation, engineered by General Manager R. M. Marshall.

Marshall had received orders from the Philadelphia offices of his company to close down on July 1, but he proposed a plan that would keep the plant running. This was to cut wages, but at the same time reduce the cost of living almost, if not quite, proportionately. The officials of the company agreed to this if the employees would give over to the company scheme, and meanwhile landlords and storekeepers prepared to slash rents and prices.

Rather than be thrown out of work, the men accepted the cut. It enabled the plant to continue operations at 70 per cent of its former activity. Between 600 and 700 men are employed there, most of them married men with families.

Rent Reduced 40 Per Cent. The rent of the company houses, which are occupied by 60 per cent of the employees, was reduced 40 per cent to conform with the lowered wage, and the price of necessities of life came down in proportion. Landlords of houses not owned by the company did not make a cut immediately, but are falling into line. Had the plant closed, it would have meant an exodus from Dunbar.

The plant is the only one of its kind in Southern Fayette County which has not laid off employees because of slack times. Not a complaint has been heard from the men since the reduction was accepted. The company has promised that when business picks up and the market improves, wages of competing concerns will be met. With this understanding, there is perfect satisfaction.

Following the cut officials of the company have done everything possible to give the employees recreation at no cost. A big athletic club has been organized and is promoting boxing. Free tennis courts have been laid out at the plant. The company has equipped a baseball team and a basketball team, and has organized a chess and checkers club.

Plan Used Elsewhere. The plan of Marshall has attracted nation-wide interest. Officials of the Washington Coal and Coke Co. at Dawson, with plants at Star Junction, near Connellsville, placed a similar proposition before their employees. This plant had practically been closed, throwing several hundred men out of work. Only 70 coke ovens out of 1000 were in operation. The company received a big order, but to fill it at prevailing wage rates would have meant a loss. The employees proposed a 10 per cent wage cut.

In return the company offered a like cut in hours, rent and also a reduction on goods at the stores it operates. The men accepted and on July 1 Star Junction again became a town of activity.

VALLEY ASSOCIATION URGES COMPLETION OF NITRATE PLANT

Federal Appropriation for Muscle Shoals Project and Federal Roads Commission Favored.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. WASHINGTON, July 19.—The Executive Committee of the Mississippi Valley Association, at a meeting here yesterday presided over by Senator William B. McKinley of Illinois, president of the association, adopted a resolution approving the work of the special committee which investigated the Government water and nitrate project at Muscle Shoals, Ala., and recommended that a Federal appropriation be made to complete the enterprise.

Alluding to the recent offer of Henry Ford, the resolution says that the report of the committee has already been the means of interesting private capital in the project.

The resolution urges that the project be finished immediately and that Congress lease and dispose of it "in such manner and to such parties as will best serve the public interests, thus making immediately available the Government's vast expenditure in and about the production of the essentials of power, navigation, manufacture, agriculture and the necessary requirements of and for the national defense."

Another resolution of the committee pledges the co-operation of the association in obtaining from Congress further legislation providing for Federal aid in highway construction.

The resolution indorses the Senate bill calling for the establishment of a Federal highway commission and the creation of an interstate highway system.

Attempts to End His Life.

John Wilde, 43 years old, a cooper living at 2221 South Broadway, attempted to end his life at his home at 10 a. m. today by drinking poison. He is in a serious condition at the city hospital. His wife while attempting to dissuade him was slightly burned on the right cheek by some of the poison. She told the police that her husband's action followed a series of quarrels with her over two children by a former marriage.

Man Gone, Wife Says $50,000 IS DEMANDED

Kidnapers Said to Have Written to Family of Sharon, Pa., Storekeeper.

By the Associated Press. SHARON, Pa., July 19.—Thomas D. Randolph, a leading business man here, was kidnaped last night and is being held for $50,000 ransom, according to information turned out today by Mrs. Randolph to city and county authorities.

Randolph did not return home last night, and his wife was almost hysterical this morning when she received two notes, one signed "Kidnapers," and one from her husband. The first note demanded $50,000.

Randolph is related to the prominent wealthy families as Billy White, who was kidnaped in March, 1919. Randolph, who conducts a stationery and book business here, telephoned his wife last night that he would be delayed at the store, as he was waiting to meet a party of men from Youngstown, O. Mrs. Randolph set up for her husband and shortly after midnight received another telephone message saying that the door to Randolph's store were open and all the lights were burning.

Letting Directed to Father. Mystified, she waited until morning, when the first letter, a message delivery bearing a Sharon postmark, was handed to her by her father-in-law, Edward V. Randolph. The letter was directed to Randolph and read:

"We have kidnaped your son and demand $50,000, as follows: Ten thousand dollars in $20 bills; 10,000 in $10 bills; 10,000 in $5 bills; 10,000 in $1 bills. We demand the money under the following terms: The greatest secrecy must prevail. Don't try in any way to catch us. If we catch you, we will destroy your son and call it off. We know our business. Don't let the police know it. Don't let private detectives. Your movements will be watched. We know your relatives. Henry Buhl of Pittsburgh and the Buhls of Detroit and Mrs. Frank Buhl of Sharon. We want that you get the money from Henry Buhl of Pittsburgh."

"Go to Pittsburgh Tuesday at 10 o'clock. Take chair car and sit at rear window. Don't record the number on the bills. Our bank will know them. If you do, we will cause your son's death. If you are going through now, if you get the money Tuesday night, keep the house lighted from 8 o'clock all night. This will be a signal to us and we can confer further with you."

The letter concluded with the suggestion that the trip be made to Pittsburgh "Tuesday morning."

The other letter was directed to Mrs. Randolph and purported to be from her husband. It urged her "for God's sake, get me away from these fellows and pay them what they demand."

Like the first letter, it had been mailed in Sharon, and bore no marks other than the address and the stamp cancellation.

PROFIT-SHARING PLAN ADOPTED

New York Firm to Give Employees Eight Per Cent of Salaries.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. NEW YORK, July 19.—The profit-sharing plan is to be tried by James McCutcheon & Co., the linen house. At a meeting of the officers and employees of the house, last night, the plan was outlined by James M. McCutcheon, president of the company. After 8 per cent has been paid on the capital investment, if the profits are sufficient, payment of 8 per cent of the amount of his salary for the year will be made to each employee, and any remaining profits will be divided half and half between the employees and the stockholders.

Employees' dividends may be paid in cash, in second preferred shares of the company's stock, or part in cash and part in stock. Speers emphasized that dividends paid to employees are not to be considered part of their salaries and that the profit-sharing plan is not to be regarded as a contract.

POLITICIANS ACQUITTED IN POKER GAME CASE

Jury Frees Goldstein, Weeke and Others After Appeal From Police Court.

"Hank" Weeke, Nat Goldstein and seven others, arrested in a politicians' poker game at the Claridge Hotel June 4, were found not guilty of gambling this afternoon, by a jury in Judge Hochdoerfer's division of the Court of Criminal Correction. The jury heard the case on appeal from the decision of Police Judge Ittner, who fined the men $10 and costs each. The jury was out only eight minutes.

In selecting the jury, questions were asked as to the prospective jurors' knowledge of the game of poker, and their acquaintance with any of the nine defendants.

Detective Sergeant Roach and two other members of the gambling squad testified as to the circumstances of the arrest. They said they did not see any bets made or any money change hands. They told of the admissions of Goldstein and other members of the party that they had been in the habit of playing poker together.

Phillips W. Moss, attorney for the defendants, filed a demurrer to the state's case, after the testimony of the detectives. The judge overruled the demurrer, and Moss then said the defense would rest on the city's case, and would not present any evidence of its own. The time allowed for arguments was 10 minutes to a side.

It appears that the information issued against the defendants charged that they were playing poker with Jere D. Cravens, manager of the hotel, and with "divers persons unknown." The defense brought out, in the testimony, that Cravens was not in the room, and that no one was in the room with them, besides the nine defendants.

The nine who appealed to the Court of Criminal Correction from Judge Ittner's decision were: "Hank" Weeke, former city hall jobholder, who forfeited his job and his membership in the Republican City Committee after the discovery that he was an enemy alien.

Nat Goldstein, Circuit Clerk, one of the Missouri "45000 pair" in the Lowden campaign fund scandal of 1920.

George P. Weinbrenner, former Sheriff, veteran poker associate of Weeke and Goldstein, known to the other players as "Sitting Bull."

Frank Slater, lawyer, Republican committeeman, also a veteran of the Weeke-Goldstein game.

INVESTIGATION OF LIQUOR CHARGE AGAINST COUNTY SHERIFF BEGUN

Sheriff Willmann July 9 and that the latter failed to suppress it. Willmann asserted that he directed Deputy Sheriff Goerick to destroy the mash and take the still to Clayton. Willmann also stated that he requested Stuckman's resignation some time ago in the interest of economy.

Attorney-General Barrett's telegram to the Prosecuting Attorney was as follows: "Have learned through the press of grave charges against Sheriff Willmann, and, after a conference with Gov. Hyde, have decided that you shall make a thorough investigation immediately and report to me personally Wednesday."

To extend investigation. Mueller stated that after he reports to the Attorney-General on the case of the still raided Sunday night he will extend his inquiry to embrace the entire county.

"I want to ascertain if there is any truth in rumors that other whisky stills have been in operation in the county without any interference on the part of the Sheriff's office," he said.

Two Italians, who were arrested at the farm Sunday night, were transferred yesterday from the Pate boulevard police station to another police station at the request of Hoover. Other Italians are being sought in connection with the operation of the still, including two Italians to whom Wolfberger rented his barn six weeks ago.

Federal Agent Destroys Still. Hoover said today that he would submit the case to Special Assistant Attorney-General Dwyer, who is in charge of the prosecution of Federal prohibition violations. Hoover yesterday destroyed the 20-foot copper still, which has a capacity for making 250 gallons of whiskey a day. He also took samples of mash and finished whiskey found in the barn.

Sheriff Willmann was said to be ill at his country home today. Prosecuting Attorney Mueller said he would go there today to take the Sheriff's statement.

LIST OF DON'TS ISSUED IN SUMMER LIFE-SAVING CAMPAIGN

Safety Council Advised Against "Rocking the Boat" and Other Common Fatality Causes.

The Central Mississippi Valley Division of the National Safety Council, through Dr. E. George Paine, chairman of its Educational Committee, has issued a series of "don'ts" in the interest of a summer life saving campaign. Among them are the following:

Don't take chances—it doesn't pay. Don't hitch on automobiles or trucks. Don't play with fire or firearms. Don't fail to look both ways when crossing the street. Don't fool with matches. Don't play in the streets. Don't play with electricity or dangling wires. Don't rock the boat. Don't drink out of medicine bottles—they may contain poison. Don't go into deep water—unless you can swim. Don't permit your elders to be careless in crossing street car tracks, boulevards and highways. Don't play with gas stoves, hose or other attachments. Don't play on window sills or porch railings.

BURNS TESTIFIES IN BASEBALL TRIAL

Questioned as to Meeting Members of the White Sox Team in New York in 1919.

CHICAGO, July 19.—Bill Burns, former major league pitcher, took the stand in the trial of the indicted White Sox players today to tell his story of the alleged conspiracy to throw the 1919 world's series. Burns was indicted as one of the conspirators, but agreed to turn State's evidence.

Harry M. Grabner, secretary of the Chicago American League Baseball Club, was the first witness called today.

Grabner testified that the White Sox players were paid for their work in the 1919 world's series by the Chicago Club and were employed for the series period as well as the regular season. The players' pay in the series was at the same rate as in the regular season, he said.

This testimony was introduced by the State to counteract the contention of the defense that the men were not under contract to the club during the series.

First details of the plays by which the Sox lost the series to Cincinnati are expected at the afternoon session, when Taylor Spink of St. Louis, who was the official scorer, takes the stand. He is to be followed by "Wild Bill" Donovan, manager of the Philadelphia National League team, and Bill Burns.

Burns on the Stand. In reply to questions, Burns said that in September, 1919, he was in New York and met White Sox players.

"Do you remember meeting one defendant in a New York hotel about Sept. 16 or 17?" he was asked. "Yes, Eddie Cloutier."

"What did Cloutier say to you?" "He told me they were figuring on it."

The defense lawyers objected to Burns telling of his conversation with Cloutier or anyone else preceding the alleged conspiracy. They were sustained.

"Did anyone come in while you talked with Cloutier?" "Billy Maharg and Gandil."

CHAIN GROCERY CASE IN BANKRUPTCY HEARD

Methods of Industrial Transportation Co. Described to Referee by Alec A. Hart.

Testimony in the Industrial Transportation Co. bankruptcy proceedings was heard yesterday before Referee Walter D. Coles. Alec A. Hart, vice president and treasurer of the company, was the only witness examined. He was on the stand four and one-half hours.

The company filed a petition in voluntary bankruptcy April 4 last after a chain of approximately 150 co-operative grocery stores had been established in Missouri, Arkansas, Louisiana and Texas, $2,500,000 in stock had been issued to the public and $495,000 in addition had been issued as promotion stock to officers and others. Of this amount $210,000 was later canceled.

H. Edwards, president and founder of the company, and W. A. Gamble, former vice president of the company and later president of the Middle States Finance Corporation, have left St. Louis, Hart said. He declared he had not heard from them.

Tried to Improve Business. After the hearing yesterday, Hart told a Post-Dispatch reporter he had entered the company April 16, 1920, in good faith to try to put the business on a sound financial basis.

A detailed report of the last meeting held by the stockholders on April 4 in the company's offices, 503 La. Street, showed that 200 stockholders were present. One was a minister from Arkansas. Following the invitation of the chairman, he offered prayer. The stockholders then proceeded to vote the company into bankruptcy.

The plan by which the $2,500,000 worth of stock was sold to the public was brought out by the testimony. The plan was to sell the stock in a community and try to find a vacant building. If this was not available, he would find a grocery dealer and offer to buy him out. The price paid, however, was in the company's stock.

In many cases the stock salesman promised to employ the merchant as the company's manager when the new store was opened. The merchant was expected to interest his friends in the project and get them to buy stock.

The stock salesman would go to a certain bank and tell the officers that he was going to help reach a certain goal in the sale of the stock the company would keep the money in that bank until the store was opened, and that the store would do all its business with that bank. Hart said, however, that while this was the general practice of the salesmen, they did it without authority from the home office.

Referee Coles asked Hart if the main object of the company wasn't to sell the stock and make the merchant second and secondary. Hart said it was to look that way now, but it wasn't so.

"I wish you would tell me of one instance where a store was opened on its own merits and no stock was sold," said Coles.

"I can't do that," Hart replied. "Isn't it true that whenever a man could be found who was willing to put $5000 or so in stock, the salesman would grab it, employ him as manager, and the home office approve it?"

"Not always. Sometimes the stock salesman would go out where they thought there was some money and promise to people the world, sometimes employing two or three managers. Then the company had to repudiate the contract and pick out one manager."

"You always picked out one, though, didn't you?" "Yes."

Hart testified that from April 1, 1920, to February, 1921, the company opened stores at the rate of 10 a month. This policy was followed in the face of the fact that all of the old stores were operating at a loss.

The charter under which the company operated was purchased by Edwards in 1918. It was granted in 1904 and characterized the Industrial Transportation as a common carrier with power to operate and carry passengers. Edwards had the charter amended to increase the capital from $1,000,000 to $2,000,000 and to change the character of the company from a railroad to the manufacture and sale of food products.

LLOYD GEORGE EXPLAINS ACTION ON THE 'TIMES'

"London Paper Barred From Certain Courtesies Because of Effort to Create Prejudice."

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch. LONDON, July 19.—Premier Lloyd George in the House yesterday explained the ban proclaimed by his order against all representatives of the Times throughout Government departments for its editorial attacking the Premier and Foreign Secretary Curzon as delegates to the Washington conference on disarmament.

Commander Kenworthy having asked what was the reason for this discrimination against particular newspapers, resulting in official and semiofficial information issued for the benefit of the public, but not to certain selected newspapers, the Premier replied:

"Official information is rendered available to newspapers in two ways. Announcements of the Government departments are distributed by the news agencies as a matter of routine, but now, for some years, it has been customary for facilities to be given to representatives of newspapers to visit Government offices and make inquiries on their own behalf. This courtesy has been normally extended to all newspapers without regard to their attitude toward the Government."

"Attempt to Make Prejudice." "The Times took full advantage of the courtesies, but courtesy should beget courtesy. On Wednesday the Times published an attack of a peculiarly offensive and mischievous character on the Foreign Secretary, with special reference to the momentous and delicate negotiations in which he was engaged in pursuance of the policy of representation not only government of the British Empire, but of the British Commonwealth, and the Dominion of Wales and India. Such reference seems to us to violate all normal standards of English journalism. I pass over the question of taste, but it is difficult to pass over the attempt to create personal prejudice in foreign countries against a British public servant of high repute at a time when he was charged with the most responsible negotiations on behalf of the whole empire."

"It is not too much to say that a reputable journal of any party would publish such an attack. Fortunately, it is entirely without precedent. In spite of its record, the Times still is supposed in many circles abroad to represent both educated and official opinion in this country. Here the Times has gone outside its proper position. That fact is only gradually becoming known abroad and it is therefore essential that the British Government as a whole should that strongly its disapproval of such an attack upon the Foreign Secretary at such a critical moment."

Official News Available. "Official information is, of course, available to the Times as before, but the special favor accorded to it in the past by tradition is entirely withdrawn."

At the close of the Premier's statement, Mr. Thomas asked whether the Government had not taken the worst possible course in showing its disapproval in that manner, as it conveyed an impression that official disapproval was only given in return for newspaper support, to which the Premier replied:

"There was no distinction drawn by the Government between journalists who supported and opposed it, but this was a grave attack, going far beyond the limits of ordinary fair criticism."

The Premier's statement bears out the report that the Times ban was issued by him and that Curzon had no part in it.

Premier Denies Report of Complication With U. S. LONDON, July 19.—Lloyd George, the Prime Minister, declared yesterday there was no truth in the report that King George had stepped in to untangle a complication between Great Britain and the United States over the proposed Pacific conference before the recent action by the Washington Government in moving for such a conference.

The Premier made the declaration in the House of Commons in replying to a question.

WELLS AUTHORIZED TO ACCEPT OFFER TO UNDERWRITE BONDS

North American's Proposition in Lindell Railway Case Is Approved by Federal Judge Wade.

Judge Martin Wade of the United States District Court here, today approved the application of Receiver Wells of the United Railways Co. for permission to accept an offer made by the North American Co. to underwrite the $1,474,000 bonds of the Lindell Railway Co. for an extension of 26 months from Aug. 1, when they are due. The proposal of the North American was made after the State Public Service Commission refused to approve a proposed issue of receiver's certificates, to take up the bonds.

The bonds as extended will bear 8 per cent interest. The original bond issue in 1891 bore 5 per cent interest over a 20-year period, and there was a renewal for 10 years at 4 1/2 per cent.

RECEIVER FOR OIL COMPANY KILLS SELF IN HIS OFFICE

Granz Helm, of San Francisco, Brooded After Being Charged With Contributing to Minor's Delinquency.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 19.—Granz Helm, receiver of the Honolulu Oil Co., shot and killed himself at his office in the Balboa Building, downtown, late yesterday, according to a statement by the company. A warrant was issued for Helm a month ago charging him with contributing to the delinquency of a minor, but never was served. It was said he had been brooding over the oil company for about a year. His home is in Berkeley, Cal.

DANVILLE, Ill., July 19.—Granz Helm married Anna, daughter of William F. Cannon, deceased banker and brother of Congressman Joseph G. Cannon. He was a clerk in a local store, and meeting opposition from her family, they eloped, after which he worked as a laborer until her family relented and obtained a position for him at Washington, where they remained for several years.

BANKS GET CENTENNIAL COINS

St. Louis banks have received limited quantities of the 50-cent pieces authorized by Congress in commemoration of the 100th anniversary of Missouri's statehood, a consignment of which reached St. Louis yesterday from the Philadelphia Mint. Congress authorized the issuance of 250,000 coins. They will be sold at $1 each, the profit to go to the centennial fund.

The coin on one side shows the head of Daniel Boone, with the dates 1821 and 1921. On the reverse side are the figures of an Indian and a Missouri pioneer, with 24 stars. At the top is the legend "Missouri Centennial," and at the bottom "Seal of the State of Missouri." The State celebration of the Missouri centennial is to be held Aug. 8 to 29.

Police Pull Woman From River. Two policemen standing at the end of Locust street this afternoon saw a woman walk out on a log and jump into the river. They found her stuck in the mud. They pulled her out and sent her to the city hospital. She was said there to be suffering from alcoholism. She said she was Ellen Davis, gave her age as 45 and said she was a scrubwoman, but gave no address.

Cabinet Meeting Canceled. By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, July 19.—Because of the absence of several members of the Cabinet who are attending the bombing tests off the Virginia capes, the regular Cabinet meeting scheduled for today was canceled. It was the second time in the administration that a bi-weekly session had been omitted except on days when the President himself was away from the capital.

BURGLARS TUNNEL THROUGH STONE WALL TO STEAL WHISKY
Burglars tunneled through a stone foundation at the drug store of Paul Schneider, 3772 South Broadway, to obtain seven and a half cases of pint bottles of whisky early today.

The wall is 20 inches thick. It surrounded a room specially built by Schneider to store the liquor and had a dropped floor which extended below the floor of the store at the rear. The chiseled opening which they made from the outside was about two feet square.

Falls Down 455-Foot Mine Shaft.
By the Associated Press. HARRISBURG, Ill., July 19.—Bertis Sewell, 23 years old, an electrician of Harrisburg, was killed at Saline No. 4 mine last night, when he fell down the 455-foot shaft. Through a mistake the cage in which he was descending was raised to the top of the tippie, where it upset.

GONE, WIFE SAYS $10,000 IS DEMANDED

Wife Said to Have Written to Family of Sharon, Pa., Storekeeper.

Associated Press. SHARON, Pa., July 19.—Thomas Randolph, a leading business man, was kidnapped last night and held for $50,000 ransom. Information turned over to Mrs. Randolph to city and authorities.

Randolph did not return home last night and his wife was almost hysterical this morning when she received a note, one signed "Kidnap" and one from her husband, at a note demanding $50,000.

Mrs. Randolph to city and authorities. Randolph did not return home last night and his wife was almost hysterical this morning when she received a note, one signed "Kidnap" and one from her husband, at a note demanding $50,000.

Free Directed to Father. Red, she walked until morning the first letter, a special one bearing a Sharon postmark, addressed to her by her father-in-law, V. Randolph. The note was directed to Randolph and

DOUBLE EXPLOSION OF BOMBS WAKENS ENTIRE NEIGHBORHOOD

Concussions in Yard at 2123 Cooper Street Bring Throng and "Night Riders" to Scene.

The explosion of two bombs at 2:50 a. m. today at the home of Pasquale Bastorina, 2123 Cooper street, caused considerable excitement among the Italian residents of that section and was heard two miles from the scene.

The police "night riders," who were at Grand avenue and Arsenal street, heard the explosions, and by the time they arrived at the Bastorina home most of the residents of the neighborhood were in the street or yards of their homes discussing the affair. They could find no trace of the persons who placed the bombs, however, they reported.

The first bomb, the police reported, exploded in the yard at the rear of the home. It aroused the family and as they started to investigate, the second bomb exploded beneath the front porch, destroying the porch and breaking windows in the Fairmount Branch of the Public Library at 2118 Cooper street.

The bombs, the police say, had apparently been set off by time fuses and had not been timed together.

Bastorina was unable to explain the explosions. He said he had not received any "black hand" letters. His home was damaged $100, he estimated.

Drenching Rain in Eastern Illinois, Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PANVILLE, Ill., July 19.—A rain which began falling last evening and continued throughout the night, the first drenching within 10 weeks, is believed to have arrived in time to save the corn crop which was badly withered all over Eastern Illinois.

WOMAN WED 9 TIMES, DENIES SHE HAS PICKED OUT NO. 10

East St. Louis Woman Says Marriage Is Matter of Luck and Hers Has Been Bad.

Mrs. Cora Swanson of 221 East Broadway, East St. Louis, who has had nine husbands and has lost eight of them, says marriage is all a matter of luck and she has had bad luck, that's all. Husband No. 9 is now suing her for divorce. She still has hopes of getting a husband that will stay, but denies that she has picked out No. 10.

Mrs. Swanson's numerous marriages were brought to notice yesterday when she had No. 9, William Swanson, in the County Court at Belleville for failing to support her. When Swanson's lawyer explained that she had had eight husbands before Swanson and had given Swanson a beating, the case was dismissed.

Mrs. Swanson says it is all true, as the lawyer said, about the eight who preceded Swanson. She started marrying them when she was 14. Her first name was Cora Walker then and she lived at Alto Pass, Ill. The first one was Joseph Truxler. Following Truxler, the succession was as follows: William Joyce, Charles Barnes, Bert Butcher, Marion Crow, John Whitney, Sherman Porter, Albert Lilley, William Swanson.

Divorce terminated each of the marriages. Lilley had his marriage annulled when he found out that she had been divorced less than a year from Porter. He took advantage of the Illinois law which forbids remarriage within one year after divorce. As soon as the year was up she married Swanson. They separated June 1.

WAR DEPARTMENT SELECTS 34 HONOR SCHOOLS AND COLLEGES

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Thirty-four educational institutions in the United States have been named by the War Department as the "distinguished colleges and honor military schools, respectively, for the year 1921."

The recognition gives each college and university the right to one appointment, virtually without examination, to the regular army each year, while each of the honor schools is permitted to maintain one representative candidate at West Point.

The colleges and universities named are the Agricultural and Mechanical College, S. C.; Colorado Agricultural College, and Cornell, N. Y.; Georgetown, Md.; Johns Hopkins, Maryland; Norwich, Vermont; Ohio State, California, Illinois, Indiana, Minnesota, Missouri, Vermont, Washington and Wisconsin Universities; Georgia School of Technology, Oregon Agricultural College, Pennsylvania Military College, Purdue University, Indiana; The Citadel, South Carolina; Virginia Agricultural, Mechanical and Polytechnic Institute and the Virginia Military Institute.

The honor military schools are the Augusta (Va.) and the Culver (Ind.) military academies; the Kemper Military School, Missouri; Kentucky Military Institute, New Mexico Military Institute, Northwestern Military and Naval Academy, Wisconsin; Shattuck School, Minnesota; Staunton Military Academy, Virginia; St. John's School, New York, and the Western Military Academy, Illinois.

GIRLS! LEMONS
BLEACH THE SKINRecipe for a Lemon Lotion
Used to Whiten and Beautify

Squeeze the juice of two lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of Orchard White, which any drug store will supply for a few cents, shake well, and you have a quarter pint of harmless and delightful lemon bleach. Massage this sweetly fragrant lotion into the face, neck, arms and hands each day, then shortly note the beauty and whiteness of your skin.

Famous stage beauties use this lemon lotion to bleach and bring that soft, clear, rosy-white complexion, also as a freckle, sunburn, and tan bleach because it doesn't irritate.

FIRST $10

You needn't wait to save $100 to buy a security paying you 7%. You can draw 7% on the first $10 you save, and on each later $10. You can do this by buying Union Electric Light & Power Company 7% preferred shares on a ten-monthly-payment plan.

You will be just as welcome into Union Electric's big family of home shareholders, buying one or more shares on the ten-payment plan, as if you paid all cash for a hundred shares. Our experience has proven that every new home shareholder is one more friend here at home helping us increase the business. We want 25,000 to 30,000 home shareholders, and we are getting them at the rate of over a thousand a year.

Our home shareholders have learned that they can bank on getting their 7% preferred cash dividends regularly—$1.75 every three months on each $100 share. They have learned that in case of need they can always have their shares resold for them, through our Securities Department, at $100 a share.

Returns from three shows and three cash contributions added $49.82 to the Post-Dispatch Pure Milk and Free Ice Fund yesterday.

Six children from the neighborhood gave a show at 2812 Thomas street and earned $21.50. The workers were: Fannie, Bennie and Lottie Muchnick, Evelyn Brody, Annie Fortman and Philip Feldman.

A check for $6.32 came from a group of girls who reside on Arlington and Ridge avenues. They made that amount by giving a show on July 14. The names of those who took part follow: Ethel Weller, Evelyn Proske, Winifred Neller, Dorothy Sanner, Hortense Handelman and Marie Skellett.

Dorothy and Frank Bryan and Miriam Pauls and Anna Ivy Sargent gave a show at 4220 Shaw avenue which netted $5 for the Milk and Ice Fund.

Cash donations came from the following: Mrs. B. Graff, 5349 Pershing avenue, $10; Katharin C. Buckner, $5; and J. A. Whittington, $2.

"CHIMES OF NORMANDY" THIS WEEK'S MUNICIPAL OPERA BILLSeventh of the Eight Week's Season Opens Tonight—Moulin to Have Character Role.

The seventh of the eight weeks of the municipal opera season will begin tonight, with "The Chimes of Normandy" as the bill.

"Tuneful" is an old word, as applied to this operatic work of Robert Planquette; but it is the word which best fits the subject. It is the most generally familiar of the works chosen for this season. It was included in the repertoire of the municipal opera in the season of 1919, and has been sung many times by professional and amateur organizations here.

Frank Moulin will have the role of Gaspard, the miser, which he played two years ago. This character role will be a change from the line of comedy which he has carried in the previous productions of this season.

Ann Bussert, as Serpolette, the village good-for-nothing, and Charles Gallagher as the bailiff, will also have the parts which they played in 1919. Other characters are Henri, Marquis of Valerol, to be played by James Stevens; Jean Grenicheux, a villager, J. Humbird Duffy; Germaine, lost heiress, Rhoda Nickells; notary, Harry Hermesen; Jeanne, Cora Stephens; Manette, Alma Menzes; and Suzanne, Madelyn Young.

JUDGE DENOUNCES JURY THAT
ACQUITS MAN IN LIQUOR CASEMembers of Panel Are Told by Judge Miller That They Are "Disgrace to State."

The verdict which a jury returned yesterday afternoon in the Court of Criminal Correction, acquitting George Troinoff, 827 Howard street, of selling whisky, was denounced by Judge Calvin Miller as "a disgrace to the State of Missouri." The men who returned it were told that they were unfit to sit as jurors.

Three policemen had testified that Troinoff sold whisky to one of them in the presence of the others. Troinoff's defense was that he gave the whisky to one of the policemen, who complained of having a pain in the stomach.

"After telling the jurors what he thought of them, Judge Miller continued another case he had intended to have tried before them. 'There is no use of trying another case before those fellows,' he said.

TWO SALOON MEN ARRESTED

Alex Domserth, proprietor of a saloon at 1400 Cass avenue, and Edward O'Toole of 1511 North Fourteenth street were arrested in the saloon last night when O'Toole was alleged to have handed a loaded revolver to Domserth as the policeman entered the place. The policeman also reported they found a half-pint bottle of whisky behind the bar. O'Toole was charged with carrying concealed weapons.

Alex Sadusky, 44 of 1026 North High street, bartender in a saloon at 1511 Wash street, was arrested last night when policemen reported they found a half-pint bottle of the police report, admitted selling the whisky at 25 cents a drink.

Second American Express Dividend, by the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 19.—For the second time this year the American Railway Express Co. has declared a dividend on its capital stock. Formal notice that a dividend of $1.70 a share, which covers operations for the second quarter of 1921, was declared last Thursday, was given out yesterday by executives of the corporation. On April 15 the corporation paid a dividend of $2.50, of which $2 was for the last quarter of 1920 and $1.50 for the first three months this year.

FATHER THINKS YOUTH
FOUND DEAD WAS SLAINAutopsy on Oscar Linder, Thought to Have Killed Himself, Reveals Fractured Skull.

As the result of an autopsy performed yesterday at Fayetteville, Ill., on the body of Oscar Linder, 22 years old, who was found dead on the morning of March 6, lying in the middle of the Freeburg road, three miles south of Belleville, and of evidence gathered by detectives, Assistant State's Attorney Lindauer of Belleville today took steps to have the inquest reopened.

When Linder was found dead there was a bullet hole in his right temple and a revolver by his side. His automobile was at the side of the road. The night before he had taken Katherine Kronenberger of Belleville to Floraville. The girl testified at the inquest that Linder had asked her to marry him and she had refused him and that he had suggested that they die together. When she refused he said: "All right. You will see in the morning." A verdict of suicide was returned.

Linder's father, Jacob Linder, of Fayetteville, was not satisfied. He said the revolver did not belong to his son. He hired detectives whose reports suggested the advisability of an autopsy. It was performed by Drs. C. P. Renner and Samuel Loughey of Belleville and E. H. Tegtmeler of Freeburg Lindauer was present. He said today the skull was found to have been fractured, apparently with a heavy instrument. He refused to divulge what the detectives have learned.

The theory is that the young man was attacked and his skull fractured with a blow and the bullet was then fired into his head and the revolver placed beside him to suggest suicide. The motive is not known. The father says his son had enemies.

Man Shoots Another Over Fiancee.
By the Associated Press.
CARMIL, Ill., July 19.—Raymond Harlow, 18 years old and the acknowledged fiance of Jeanette Graves, shot and killed Levy Graves, 23 years old, after the latter had warned him against paying further attentions to the girl, Sunday night. Although of the same name, Graves was not related to the young woman, who asserts that Harlow shot in self-defense. Harlow was released on $5000 bond after being taken into custody.

Filed by Administrator.

The personal estate of Dr. Henry J. de Haan, East St. Louis physician who died recently, is valued at $191,255.53, according to an inventory filed yesterday by Samuel Baxter, who was appointed "administrator to collect" in Belleville.

The personal estate consists of $1500 in Liberty bonds; $77,500

stock and interest coupons in the St. Joe Bay Company; $10,000 insurance, $67,647.50 in certificates; $5000 in mortgages and $2500 in cash. Mrs. Fannie de Haan, the widow, has announced her intention of contesting Dr. de Haan's will in the interest of her infant son.

Iron Falls From Pole, Hits Child.
Mary Waltes, 14 years old, of 3884 Delmar boulevard, was knocked down by a piece of iron that fell from a pole at Vandeventer and En-

"Don't rub
your youth away"

Is any one else doing what Mrs. Emily Morton was?

Mrs. Morton, who wrote us this letter, at first failed to soak her clothes according to the directions below. Now that she is soaking them she gets the same wonderful results with Rinso as her neighbors do.

Among the thousands of enthusiastic letters we have received about Rinso there have been a few like Mrs. Morton's raising some question about its use.

We are giving on this page all the questions we have received and our answers. If any other woman has any question, won't she write us?

Should I dissolve Rinso in boiling water first?

Question: "Should I dissolve Rinso in boiling water first or pour it right into the tub from the package?"

Answer: You will get a much richer, soapier suds if you dissolve Rinso in boiling water, according to the directions below, before pouring it into your tub.

How long should I soak colored clothes?

Question: "How long should I soak colored clothes in Rinso?"

Answer: Colored clothes should never be soaked, even in clear water, for longer than half an hour. Soak your colored things in Rinso suds for only a half hour.

Is any other soap needed with Rinso?

Question: "Do I have to use any other soap when I use Rinso?"

Answer: No. Soak the clothes with Rinso as directed below and the dirt will all come out and leave the clothes spotlessly clean. No other soap is needed.

Should I use Rinso on silks?

Question: "I have been using Rinso for over a year for all my regular wash. I would never have believed it possible to get clothes clean without rubbing. I have never used it on my husband's silk shirts or on my own silk things. Would it be all right?"

Answer: No, Rinso is made especially for the regular family wash. Silks, woollens, and the very fine sheer fabrics should be washed in Lux.

Does hard water make any difference?

Question: "I have used Rinso for nearly a month. It makes the work easier but I still have to rub quite a little. I use it according to directions—half a package to a tub of clothes. The water is very hard here. Do you suppose that has anything to do with it?"

Answer: Yes, when the water is hard, a larger amount of Rinso must be used to get a good, rich, soapy suds. Try using 2 or even a full package to a tub. It is always better to use too much than too little.

Can I use Rinso in my washing machine?

Question: "I have a washing machine. Can I use Rinso in it?"

Answer: Rinso is the ideal soap product for washing machines. With it you don't have to do any rubbing—not even the most badly soiled spots. Follow the regular directions given below. Soak the clothes. Then, before operating the machine, add a fresh Rinso solution, using the same amount of Rinso as you used for soaking. No other soap is needed when Rinso is used.

Rinso is made by the makers of Lux, the largest soap makers in the world. It loosens and dissolves the dirt from even the heaviest pieces of the weekly wash, without injury to a single fabric.

Don't rub your youth away. Get Rinso today from your grocer or any department store. Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Mass.

Dissolve

For each tub of clothes thoroughly dissolve a half package of Rinso in two quarts of boiling water. (Where water is hard or clothes extra dirty, use more Rinso.)

Rinso

Made in U.S.A. 8¢

Pour into tub

of lukewarm water—mix well. Keep adding the solution until you get a good, rich, lasting, soapy suds—even after the clothes have been put in.

Then let your clothes soak
—and rinse without any hard rubbing

Soak one hour—two hours—overnight—whatever time is convenient. These wonderful mild suds loosen every particle of dirt. Rinse, to remove the loosened dirt, till the water runs clear.

PLANS FOR THE WILSON FOUNDATION COMPLETE

Franklin D. Roosevelt, National Chairman, Tells of Details of Organization.

NEW YORK, July 19.—(Franklin D. Roosevelt, national chairman for the Woodrow Wilson Foundation, for which a fund will be raised in the fall to endow an annual award for distinguished public service, in commemoration of former ex-President Wilson's ideals, has announced the completion of organization plans which will carry the award's appeal into every town and hamlet in the United States.

"As a national tribute, the Woodrow Wilson Foundation will represent a really national testimonial to the ideals for which Woodrow Wilson has stood," said Roosevelt, "and should present to every man, woman and child who admires those ideals an opportunity to perpetuate them through an annual award or prize for distinguished service in the public welfare. Our plans have been laid accordingly, and are now in process of being carried out."

The organization machinery set up by Roosevelt and by Hamilton Holt, executive director, in collaboration with their associates, includes a national committee of 250 members, an executive committee consisting of one representative from every state, a campaign committee of six, and 48 state units, which will per-

MEXICAN BUREAU MAKES CUT IN TAX BASIS FOR CRUDE OIL

Reduction, Which Amounts to 10 Per Cent, Said Not to Be Connected With Obregon's Decree.

MEXICO CITY, July 19.—A virtual reduction of 10 per cent in price basis on which taxes on crude petroleum and its derivatives are collected was contained in circular No. 107, issued today by the Petroleum Bureau. The reduction refers to the prices fixed by circular 96, issued last May, and, according to representatives of oil companies here, it is not concerned with President Obregon's recent decree increasing export taxes on oil.

El Demócrata, which published the circular, asserted that the reduction was made by the Government "in a spirit of equity, and in view of the depression of the oil market."

According to figures obtained from local oil men, the price on crude petroleum has been reduced from approximately 5 pesos 6 centavos per cubic meter to 4 pesos 72 centavos. Oil men in admitting that the new circular provides for a reduction pointed out today that this reduction is insignificant when compared to the export taxes which are still being exacted under the presidential decree.

GERMANS TAKE POSITION THEY ARE UNABLE TO AID RUSSIANS

Maxim Gorky's Appeal Meets With Slight Response; Some Opposition to Helping Bolshevism.

BERLIN, July 19.—Maxim Gorky's appeal to the Germans to help the starving Russians has met with slight response. The general attitude appears to be that the Germans are in no condition to help anybody, and, if they were, they would not support Bolshevism, which is charged with responsibility for the bad harvest through failure to furnish the peasants with materials with which to work, and discouraging the willing, by confiscations.

The Vossische Zeitung only hoped "the Germans will not confuse the Russian people with Bolshevism." The Lokal Anzeiger says: "We have nothing to give; if we had, we wouldn't dare give it. Perhaps it

WIDOW TELLS OF THREATS AGAINST MURDERED FARMER

Operators of Alleged Still Said They Would "Get Him" for Talk, Mrs. Myers, of Rushville, Declares.

RUSHVILLE, Mo., July 19.—Two of her sisters-in-law fainting during the funeral ceremonies of her husband, George Myers, who was found murdered Saturday morning at his farm home near here, but Mrs. Maude Myers, his widow, stood the ordeal well, showing no emotion until the casket was opened at the conclusion of the sermon. Then she repeatedly embraced and kissed her husband.

After the family had returned from the cemetery there was a conference with Sheriff Keuker of Buchanan County relative to threats against Myers declared to have been made by operators of an alleged still near the Myers farm.

Mrs. Myers said the alleged still operators had thrown stones at the Myers house and barn several times and that one night Myers shot twice at them. As the men ran away, she said, they threatened to "get him."

The widow said Myers often had talked to neighbors and others about the alleged still and a report that several barrels of moonshine whisky had been hidden in woods on an adjoining farm.

J. K. Seales, real estate agent, said Myers had several times spoken of somebody throwing stones at his house at night and that Myers said he shot at them one night. Neighbors also have told of similar statements made by Myers, it was said today.

Mrs. Myers told Sheriff Keuker

BODY OF WELL-DRESSED MAN FOUND ON FARM JUST OFF ROAD

By the Associated Press.

WAUKEGAN, Ill., July 19.—The body of a well-dressed man pierced by two bullets was found yesterday on the John Wolf farm, near Libertyville, beside the Milwaukee road. On the left hand was a heavy gold signet ring bearing the initials "S. M." Automobile tracks leading to the fence beside which the body was found led to the belief that the man had been slain while in an automobile and the remains thrown from the car. A card found in a pocket bore the name of Robert J. Lavaty, representing the Optical Sales Co. of Chicago.

CHICAGO, July 19.—Robert J. Lavaty, when interviewed last night, said that he could not identify the body of a man found slain beside the road near Libertyville yesterday from the description. A card bearing Lavaty's name was found on the body. Lavaty will go to Libertyville tomorrow to view the body.

Gen. March at Coblenz.

COBLENZ, July 19.—Gen. Peyton C. March, former Chief of Staff of the United States Army, arrived here Monday night.

He would attend the inquest in St. Joseph this afternoon when a Coroner's jury will attempt to fix the responsibility for Myers' death. She told the officer again today that Myers was murdered by two masked men.

MAN REPORTS LOSS OF $300 WHEN ON WAY TO BANK

Burglars at Candy Store, Drug Store and Several Homes Also Reported.

Herbert Vivian of 2201 Park avenue reported to the police yesterday the theft of $300 in $20 bills taken from his hip pocket in a wallet while he was en route on street cars to a bank downtown. When he arrived at Eighteenth street and Washington avenue, he said, he missed the wallet.

Candy, cigars and cigarettes valued at $400 were stolen by burglars at the Princess Candy Kitchen, 1402 North Grand avenue, last night.

E. A. Scheinert of the Peerless Scale Co., staying at the Plaza Hotel, reported that in the last week a number of penny-in-the-slot weighing machines on Delmar boulevard between Taylor and De Balivre avenues had been broken into by removing a plate on the cash receiver and the money stolen. From two machines at 626 North Taylor avenue and 4506 Delmar boulevard, he said, $40 in pennies had been taken.

Burglars in the drug store of Harry Kranson, 4287 Olive street, took 30 pints of whisky, two gallons of alcohol and $50 in cash last night. Other burglaries reported were in the homes of Jacob Bierman, 1017A North Seventeenth street, and Frank B. Cowman, 5573 Delmar boulevard. Clothing and jewelry valued at $275 was stolen from the Bierman home by a thief who left a shirt behind.

The New Improved Gillette

Patented January 13th, 1920

EVIDENCE of the confidence of men the world over in this great achievement—the New Improved Gillette—is briefly this:—

Announced to the public on May 16th, 1921. Demand unforeseen by many dealers. A week later "RUSH" orders from these same merchants. At one time, it looked as if New Improved Gillettes were at a premium.

Within a month, distribution showing signs of catching up with demand, in spite of unfilled orders.

Today, the factory still making an effort to catch up—with 500,000 New Improved Gillettes already sold to the first 500,000 lucky enough to get them.

The most spontaneous response to any razor of any type since the world began making and using shaving implements.

Reports $65,000 in Watches Stolen.
By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 19.—The theft from his room in a hotel of several hundred watches, including 200 diamond-studded wrist watches, valued in all at $65,000, was reported to the police yesterday by Harry Preston, New York jewelry salesman. According to Preston, he left the watches in a suit case in his hotel and when he returned they were gone. The police have been unable to find any trace of the watches.

Two Statuettes Loaned for Exhibition Were Made in Period Before Christ.

EARLY GREEK BRONZES ON VIEW AT MUSEUM

Two Statuettes Loaned for Exhibition Were Made in Period Before Christ.

Two early Greek bronze statuettes, which display the skill of ancient metal workers, are on temporary exhibition at the City Art Museum in Forest Park. The older of the two pieces is a statuette 10 1/2 inches high of a Greek hero, believed to have been made in the early part of the fourth century, B. C. The figure is that of a mature man, bearded, and, except for a helmet, entirely nude. From the pose of the body, with advancing stride and arms raised as though a sword had just been drawn from its scabbard, the statuette is thought to represent Aristogiton, who, with Harmodius, slew the Athenian tyrant, Hipparchus (510 B. C.).

Aristogiton and Harmodius were greatly venerated by succeeding generations of Athenians and numerous statues were erected in their honor. In any of these the tyrannicides are represented as holding a sword and scabbard in much the same position as this statuette. In the present instance the weapons are missing, but the openings in the folded hands show clearly that some object was originally grasped by each.

The pose of the little figure is vigorous and full of movement. The muscles of the body are modeled with a thorough knowledge of anatomy, but with the dignified restraint characteristic of the period—which was one of the most brilliant in the artistic history of Greece.

Was Found in the Tiber.

The piece was found in the River Tiber, and was, when discovered, encrusted with a green patina, traces of which may be seen on the back. The removal of this patina permits the beautiful golden yellow of the bronze to be seen. It is hollow cast, probably by thecire-perdue process, a favorite method with ancient founders, while with certain modifications, is still in use. In casting by the ancient cire-perdue process, a clay core, approximating the form of the statue, was covered with a coating of wax, which in turn was modeled exactly as the finished work was to be. The whole was then surrounded by a clay or plaster mantle. Through an opening left at one corner of the mantle, the molten bronze was poured in, melting and displacing the wax. From this it will be seen that the process admitted of the molding of but a single bronze from each model, so that every antique bronze statue was an original work.

The founder seems to have encountered difficulties in molding the little figure, as a close examination reveals numerous defects in the casting which have been skillfully repaired by the introduction of little square or rectangular plugs. Though modern bronze statues are almost invariably treated with acids to produce an artificial coloration or patina, there is every reason to believe that the patina upon antique bronzes is due solely to their age. The ancients preferring the bright, polished surface of the uncorroded bronze. The original golden yellow of the statuette at the museum appears to have been supplemented by silver inlay at the eyes, which is now missing.

Statue Was Originally Gilt.

The other early Greek bronze statuette which is on view at the museum belongs to the second century, B. C. It is also the figure of a man, said to be an athlete, with a chlamys draped over the left shoulder. The statuette is about seven inches tall and was originally gilt, considerable remains of which are yet visible. The preservation, like that of the preceding statuette, is excellent in view of the great antiquity of the piece. The subject stands in an easy, graceful attitude, resting the weight of the body upon the right foot, with the right arm extended at the side and the left forearm covered by the chlamys. The pose is, in fact, almost identical with that of a whole series of statues of Mercury, wherein the god is represented sometimes with a purse in the right hand and the caduceus in the left. These attributes are lacking in the present example, but the position of the hands indicate that they originally held some object. The airy, graceful carriage of the figure seems also quite appropriate to the fleet messenger of the gods, hence it is possible that the statuette represents Mercury rather than an "athlete," the title accompanying the piece.

The details of the statuette are finished with great care and accuracy. The individual locks of hair are delicately chased and the features, hands and feet have received careful attention. The gold, with which the entire surface was originally covered, was probably applied by means of mercury, much as in the modern process of gilding on bronze. Well preserved bronze statues dating from the classical period are of the greatest rarity, being even scarcer than marble pieces, as they were frequently broken up by savage and ignorant invaders for the sake of the valuable metal which they contained. The museum is exhibiting during the summer months the two pieces described above through the courtesy of a New York dealer in antiquities.

DEAL CLOSED FOR SITE OF SHRINER HOSPITAL

Weisels-Gerhart Company Completes Transaction in 3 Days
—Price Is $150,000.

The Weisels-Gerhart Real Estate Co. last week closed final negotiations for the purchase of the site of the new Shriners' Hospital for Crippled Children.

The price paid was $150,000. It has a frontage of 380 feet on King's highway, with a frontage on Clayton avenue of 344 feet and a frontage on McKinley avenue of 325 feet. It is located in the hospital zone immediately south of the Medical School of the Barnes Hospital group.

The Weisels-Gerhart Real Estate Co. handled the entire transaction from its inception and represented all the parties in interest.

The property was purchased from the following owners: On King's highway front, Thomas E. Price Jr. and Jacob Schreiner, 50 feet; Mrs. Lena Kern, 50 feet; Claire J. and O. A. Hazenstab, 50 feet; J. B. and Tulle C. Gury, 100 feet, with residence known as 710 South King's highway; estate of Logan D. Dameron, 50 feet; Susan M. Kammerer, 50 feet, with improvements thereon known as 700 South King's highway; McKinley avenue front, Washington University, 150 feet; Clayton avenue front, A. F. Furrer, 83 feet; Joseph Haupt, 50 feet; John Hoefler, 35 feet.

Title to the property was taken in the name of the St. Louis Union Trust Co., trustee, which will hold title pending necessary legal procedure for the incorporation of the trustees of the Hospital Committee of the Shriners of North America.

Construction of the new hospital will begin about Sept. 15. Final details as to the plans are not ready for publication.

The Weisels-Gerhart Real Estate Co. handled the purchase of this site and closed contracts within three days from the time they were authorized to proceed.

MAN, RECENTLY MARRIED, KILLS SELF ON FIRST WIFE'S GRAVE

Henry Schroeder, Sued for Breach of Promise After Wedding, Swallows Poison in Cemetery.

Henry Schroeder, 48 years old, of 4554 Penrose street, a steamfitter, by swallowing poison yesterday on the grave of his first wife, in Friedland cemetery, 8900 North Broadway. A breach of promise suit was brought against him Thursday by Miss Josie Mollman of 4028 Penrose street, following his marriage three weeks ago to Miss Lillie Freivogel.

He was unconscious when found by William Payne, a grave digger, and died before an ambulance arrived. Depositions were to have been taken in the breach of promise case yesterday in the law office of Lambert E. Walther, Title Guaranty Building, attorney for Schroeder. Miss Mollman and her lawyer, George W. Funke, were preparing to attend the hearing, at which the plaintiff's deposition was to be taken, when Funke received word from Walther that it would not be necessary to conduct the examination as Schroeder was dead.

Miss Mollman's suit was for $20,000. She alleged that Schroeder, before he married the other woman, promised to marry her.

BOY, 3, SUFFERS FRACTURED SKULL WHEN HIT BY TRUCK

Motor Cycle Rider and Youth, Whom He Strikes Are Both Seriously Injured.

Joseph Kimberlin, 8 years old, of 2728 North Taylor avenue, suffered a fractured skull yesterday when he was struck by an automobile truck driven by John Robinson of 2223 Walnut street, a negro, in front of the boy's home. The boy was running across the street, police reported, on his way to a drug store, to buy a rubber ball, when he was knocked down. He was taken to his home.

Alvert Hogan, 18, of 4243W Natural Bridge avenue, and Elmer Allen, 19, 4047 K. K. avenue, were seriously injured last night when a motor cycle ridden by Hogan struck the Allen boy, who was crossing the street at Lee and Clay avenues. The motor cycle skidded after the accident, throwing Hogan. The latter was taken to the city hospital, where doctors said he had a fractured skull and right arm and internal injuries. Allen was taken to his home. He suffered a fracture right leg and internal injuries.

Andrew J. Manion of 7400 Gravois avenue and George Striker, 64, and E. L. Striker, 22 of 2618 Geyer avenue, were out and bruised when an automobile driven by Manion overturned at Grand and Chouteau avenues when Manion swerved sharply at the corner to avoid an eastbound Manchester car.

STEALING BOILERS A SPECIALTY

Wealthy Frenchman Found to Have Mania for Their Theft.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch. PARIS, July 19.—The activities of a minor burglar, whose booty consisted of boilers and similar articles, have been stopped, the police believe, by the arrest of Ernest Bottir, the wealthy owner of a handsome chateau in the Loire region.

According to accounts of the robberies published here, Bottir broke into an ironmonger's shop in a village near Orleans one night recently. He carried off a boiler, which he fitted the next day in his chateau. When the police were searching the place they found a number of other boilers and similar articles, said now to be the proceeds of Bottir's peculiar burglaries.

HOUSE TO BEGIN CONSIDERING ITS
ROAD BILL TODAY

Measure to Come Up for En-grossment as Special Business, After Income and Inheritance Tax Proposals.

BAILEY PLANS TO OFFER AMENDMENTS

Hard Roads Advocate Expects to Make Substitute Satisfactory With Certain Changes.

A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, July 19.—
Consideration of the House Committee substitute road bill, which was introduced in all its important features by Senator Ralph, chairman of the Senate Committee on Roads, will be begun in the House today.

The roads bill will be up for en-grossment when called and will be subject to amendment. Indications are that a large number of amendments probably more than 50, will be offered, and it is doubtful if en-grossment of the bill on engrossment will be completed for two or three days.

Although it was reported by his colleague, Bailey is not supporting the bill as reported by the committee. He said today he would have several amendments to offer and that he was not satisfied with the bill
in its present form.

"I think Senator Ralph is unduly alarmed," Bailey said, "and it is my belief that a few amendments
would make the bill the right kind of a bill and one under which good roads could be constructed."

"I am in favor of an amendment to the county guarantee to provide for the expenditure of $5000 a mile on two-county gravel roads in each county, instead of $2000 a mile as the present bill provides,
which would mean that $35,000,000
of the $50,000,000 bond issue money would be for the construction of gravel roads, leaving $15,000,000
for the expected $25,000,000 of other aid, or $60,000,000 in all,
the higher type roads."

"I also am in favor of amendments to the appropriation section of the bill to have the bill provide that there will be no question that work on the higher type roads may be begun at the same time work is begun on the first gravel roads. I think it was the intention of the committee to have the bill provide that, but the bill is not clear. It should be. There should be no question that work can proceed on types of road from the beginning."

Senator Bailey's amendments to the bill are being considered by the committee. The amendments, with amendments changing the salary section of the bill, would put it in good condition, in his opinion, and I do not see why the Senate could not see to it that it takes such a bill. Of course, none can have exactly what we want,
but so very much better than it is that appeared it would be that I felt that getting out of the committee
the kind of a bill we did get."

Bailey is a hard-surfaced road
advocate and led the fight in the committee to have the bill provide that work be done on gravel roads and gravel roads. Through a system of committees he toned down many objectionable portions of the bill, as at present.

There has been no vote by which
there was a real test of the House members on road legislation, but with a vote will come quickly after the bill is taken up for engrossment.
It may be that it can be amended to include features, but on the other hand the house may amend it and take it even more of a dirt road measure than it is.

No Action by Governor.
In some quarters there has been belief that Gov. Hyde would take a hand in the road situation in the state, and would endeavor to bring about a line for a real hard-road
measure, but he has done nothing further than to send a message to the legislature calling on it to enact legislation for a connected system of improved roads considered from the standpoint of the interests of the state at large and not from the national local viewpoint.

After the House bill is engrossed
and it is known just what amendments will be adopted, Bailey, under directions from the committee, will prepare amendments to the Ralph bill, which has passed the Senate,
and conform to the House bill.
It is expected that the House bill will be made to conform to the House bill accordingly and

SENATOR FRANCE SAYS GERMANY EAGERLY AWAITS CHANCE TO BUY OUR COTTON AND GRAIN

"U. S. Still Victim of War Propaganda"

Finds Evidence in Berlin
Also of Effort to Keep America Separated From Russia and the Trade That We May Have There.

Senator France entered Russia
June 30 and is now in Moscow. From England, via Antwerp, he passed through Belgium and Holland, through Essen into Germany, and from Berlin has now arrived by mail several articles dealing with German-Russian relations and the conditions which affect American trade. Senator France is the first American to gain entrance into Russia in many months. The Post-Dispatch herewith presents the first of his articles from Berlin. He will write his story of Russian conditions
when he gets out.

By Joseph Irwin France, United States Senator From Maryland.

BERLIN, June 21.—
The morning after our arrival in Berlin we were in touch with the Russian delegation and were informed that the home Government would be communicated with concerning our desire to enter Russia.
We shall utilize the time which must intervene before the answer comes from Moscow to study the European and Russian questions in this great central city of Berlin.

In London we learned that the British were deeply interested in securing Russian trade. Here we find not only confirmation of the evidence which led us to believe that England was vitally interested in Russia, but most conclusive evidence that the British merchants and manufacturers are making every effort to expand their trade with Germany and that they look forward to co-operating with the Germans in the opening up and development of Russia.

From this angle the extreme stupidity of our foreign policy, which was so evident to me before I sailed for Europe, becomes increasingly apparent. It is quite evident, as we survey the situation here, that America has been the victim of a most clever propaganda, designed to separate us from Russia and to keep us in a technical state of war with Germany, and that this has greatly retarded to the advantage of other countries while it has resulted in depression and distress in our own land
and has seriously retarded the restoration of Europe.

Cannot Explain Why.
Being unable to understand it myself, I find it impossible to explain why my party, which had promised to immediately peace with Germany, has failed to do so. It is as if it failed to fulfill its pledge to the great injury of the agricultural and industrial interests of our country.

Editor's Note.—Since the foregoing article was written, the Senate has declared a state of peace with Germany, and the United States and Germany are now at peace. The United States all the rights and privileges under the Treaty of Versailles which the Senate rejected under President Wilson. However, this resolution remains ineffective because the President, though he signed the joint peace resolution, has not been able to purchase clothing with the usual proportion of wool. Cotton, then,
must be used to an even greater
extent than formerly.

Let me illustrate. Germany desperately needs wheat in large quantities. While our farmers have been suffering keen embarrassment and distress because they could not find a market for their grains, the Germans have been purchasing the wheat for their immediate needs from the farmers of Australia, and are receiving a credit of three, six and nine months. These credits were arranged by British bankers. Because we are still in a state of war, technically, with Germany, it is not practicable for credits on a large scale to be arranged, and we consequently lose this market, to the advantage of those countries which have already made peace with Germany.

See Great Cotton Merchant
When our farmers, manufacturers and workers realize how their interests are being sacrificed they will demand prompt governmental action to secure peace and to make possible credits. If that governmental action is not taken there will surely come a terrible day of reckoning for those who refuse to keep faith and meet these reasonable demands.

See Great Cotton Merchant
Having in mind the serious plight
of the cotton planters of the South, with their crops unsold and the new crop coming on, I desired to talk with the great cotton goods merchant in Germany, who is also one of the leading authorities of the world on every subject that pertains to the manufacture and merchandising of cotton in all its forms.

I was fortunate in being able to have a long conference with this man, of about 60, smooth-shaven
with massive head and of quite Napoleonic appearance. I called on him in his office in a tower, handsome of brick and stone, almost fortress-like, which contained show rooms and warehouses as well as the offices of this powerful figure in the commercial life of Europe and the world. From his building in the past had been shipped vast quantities of cotton fabrics to Asia, to Africa, to all sections of the world.

Tiers of Empty Shelves.
Now, as I passed down the corridors toward the private office, I could see on the other side of the glass partitions mainly tiers and tiers of empty shelves. I was informed that never before in the firm's history had the stocks been so completely sold out. Yet this great cotton merchant I found distinctly pessimistic on world conditions, owing to credits and markets. Germany does not need considerable quantities of American cotton, and he was extremely frank.

"Germany and the world need manufactured cotton goods in quantities larger than we have ever dreamed," he said. "In coming months, perhaps years, German women will be unable to afford silk and woolen goods, and men will not be able to purchase clothing with the usual proportion of wool. Cotton, then,
must be used to an even greater
extent than formerly."

"I am informed that in America have large accumulations of unsold raw cotton. Our German millions are running probably at not one-half their capacity. We need credits to support our operations and markets prepared to pay for our product. Given them, we could run our mills full time day and night and could soon use up all of your available supplies of raw cotton. There can be no doubt that Russia would be such a market as we need if the credits for the buying and selling transactions and the exchange of products could be arranged."

World Short of All Goods.
Wherever I met a deep student of the economic and industrial problems of the world I hear the same words. It can all be summed up in a few sentences. During the war there was a tremendous overconsumption or destruction of all manner of goods. The world is now short of all kinds of goods.
Civilization depends upon goods. Today, in some parts of the world, as in Russia and Austria, there is such a shortage of the goods necessary for civilization that civilization itself is impaired. Yet with this worldwide shortage there are many unemployed who are needed in every line of production. It is the task of the business men, the bankers, the statesmen of the world to co-operate in the working out of practical plans for the possible plentiful production and the proper distribution of all of those goods so needed
if the world is to be restored to its normal condition. It will be a severe test of our present-day political and economic systems, in which commercial systems will prove adequate if we act with courage and intelligence.

Is Dubious Over Assets.
"Approximately $200,000,000 represents the absolute loss on operations in the fleet," he continued,
"and then there was $160,000,000
spent on ship construction. What these newly-acquired assets are
worth is highly questionable."
The plans for the American Legion, which starts on its first
trip in a few days, were redrawn
seven times and it is easy to see how
that would run up the cost.

"First, the American Legion was
an army transport, then a navy
transport, then a hospital ship, then
operations were made to make her a
cattle boat, and after spending
money on all these blue prints, it
was decided to transform her into a
passenger ship—and she is a beautiful and fine passenger ship. But she cost between $6,000,000 and $7,000,000
before she sailed her first mile.

Chairman Lasker Scores Accounting System; Will Ask for Relief Appropriation of $300,000,000.

DEFICIT ESTIMATED
AT $380,000,000

President Shocked and Dismayed, the Official Says,
When He Was Informed of Conditions.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—With the publication today of revised estimates of the Shipping Board's deficit for the last fiscal year, showing a total of $380,000,000, or approximately $280,000,000 more than previous estimates, Chairman Lasker
of the Board said he was prepared to appear before Congressional Committees to explain the condition of the Board's finances and asked for a relief appropriation of approximately $300,000,000, for the current fiscal year.

In announcing the new estimate of the deficit incurred in operation
of the Government fleet, Chairman Lasker declared the books of the Shipping Board were in a "deplorable condition," and that they "could not have been kept in such a deplorable shape had they been kept with a view to cheating and deceiving Congress and the country."

"I know and want to explain," the Chairman added, "that Admiral Benson, (former Chairman of the Board), and Auditor Tweeddale, believe the remotest thing to do with such gross misrepresentations."

The accounting systems, he said,
"were started in the stress of war
and continued in the stress of incompetency," and though outside auditors had produced the figures
given out, "I don't guarantee them
even now."

"When I showed the President the figures, he was shocked and dismayed that such a condition could exist," Chairman Lasker continued.
"The $300,000,000 received from operations when deducted from the $680,000,000, received by the Board from all sources, shows net
expenditures of $380,000,000,
although the public records show $100,000,000 to be the amount that had been appropriated by Congress for the year. This is an astounding case of absolute deception of the country and of Congress. It will be a shock to Congress, as it was to the President to hear that the net expense of this enterprise paid out of public funds last year was $380,000,000."

Chairman Lasker explained that the extra funds to keep the establishment going were obtained chiefly from the sale of $200,000,000 of capital assets, ships and supplies, plus $80,000,000 of balance from funds
left from last year.

"Approximately $200,000,000 represents the absolute loss on operations in the fleet," he continued,
"and then there was $160,000,000
spent on ship construction. What
these newly-acquired assets are
worth is highly questionable."

The plans for the American Leg-
ion, which starts on its first
trip in a few days, were redrawn
seven times and it is easy to see how

"First, the American Legion was
an army transport, then a navy
transport, then a hospital ship, then
cattle boat, and after spending
was decided to transform her into a
passenger ship—and she is a beautiful and fine passenger ship. But she
before she sailed her first mile.
Her real worth is probably half the cost. So you can see the assets are pretty sick assets. But after all, there is a fleet. So that our task is to make what was a liability into an asset."

President Harding has instructed
the board "that the public is to have the facts—all the facts," Lasker
added.

The turns are being operated on a commission basis, under contracts
that cannot be discontinued immediately, he said, and "we must grin and bear that system, for some months to come, and after that we will have actually heard of a boat
added."

HOOVER IN FINAL REPORT, SHOWS $1,300,000,000 SPENT
IN BELGIAN RELIEF WORK

High Praise for 55,000 Volunteers in Greatest Charity in World's History, With Cost of Only .42 of 1 Per Cent.

NEW YORK, July 19.—
HERBERT C. HOOVER, chairman of the Commission for the Relief of Belgium, in a final statement issued at the headquarters of the organization here, shows that food and clothing to the amount of more than $1,300,000,000 were purchased in the six years of the commission's operation from Sept. 1, 1914, to Sept. 1, 1920. The liquidation of the accounts of the commission are practically complete with the exception of certain minor outstanding items that bear but a small relation to the total transactions.

"The commission was born as a purely philanthropic enterprise, designed upon the charity of the world for support, conceived as a few months' emergency service to defend 10,000,000 people from certain starvation," said Mr. Hoover.
"However, it became evident that the war was not a struggle of months but of years, and that, if these 7,500,000 people in Belgium
and 2,500,000 in Northern France
were to survive, it must be accomplished by much broader operation
than public charity."

"The commission, therefore, sought and ultimately received financial support from the Belgian,
French, British and later the American Governments. These official advances were, by consent of the Belgian and French Governments, debited to them and were finally placed in the reparations settlement for deferred payment under the indemnities. The organization thus rapidly grew to a great economic engine with an annual budget of over $400,000,000 in all its different ramifications inside and outside the invaded regions.

Vast Organizations Needed.
"The basic theory of the administration was to erect a system of food supply with all of its train of handling agencies, stretching from the interior of the United States, the Argentina, Australia, India and other great food centers, focusing into Rotterdam and then distributing through chains of primary and secondary warehouses, ultimately
through a ration card, reaching to
the individual family, which paid
for the food at fixed prices.

"Destitution grew rapidly during the war and of the 10,000,000 people
fully 5,000,000 were wholly or partially destitute before the end of the war. A separate branch of administration was organized for the care of these destitute, giving them assistance by ration cards and by charitable public eating and clothing establishments. Their necessities were extended further although chains of primary and secondary warehouses, ultimately
through a ration card, reaching to
the individual family, which paid
for the food at fixed prices.

Profit in Side Operation.
"Upon these and similar transactions entirely outside of Belgium and France a balance or profit of over $5,000,000 was earned, several times greater than all overhead expenditures. From these profits on outside operations the commission first paid
its entire administration and general expenses; second, paid over to the Benevolent Department some $2,000,000 for charitable distribution in Belgium and France; and, third, as
at Sept. 30, 1920, still held available for relief work in those countries and to meet the expense of liquidation approximately $2,120,000—since that date largely distributed. The economy of operation in the commission has,
in fact, even a higher standard of test than this, in that the average prices maintained for food supplies
in this occupied territory during the entire period of war with now from 15 to 20 per cent less than the price
in the allied countries at the same periods.

Raise for 55,000 Volunteers.
"No set of accounts or figures can reflect the intense anxiety, the patience and skill required of the 55,000 volunteers who toiled in this complex agency, defending ten million lives. Inspired with humane sympathy for these people, who having no responsibility for the war, suffered most from its hardships and barbarities, they labored
that this service might be done efficiently and with economy. It is to their unflinching devotion that we are now able to publish exact figures of accountability for funds, and to trace each ton of food from the place of purchase to the ultimate consumer among the civil population of the invaded regions. Surrounded by terror and suffering,
this multitude had but little concern
for the bookkeepers in the back rooms of the 43 branch offices of the relief organization. It was of the utmost concern, however, to those in official direction, not only that the work might be effectively performed and presented to the world, but that our honor and the honor of our country in this trustworthy should never be challenged."

How the Work Was Done.
"Three methods were employed in benevolent organizations. First, existing charitable institutions, and in the case of children were extended to cover the whole of Belgium and France. Second, certain professions and trades were assisted to care for the members of their profession.
Third, benevolent committees were set up in each commune for the con-

turning back in midweek, to take on a cargo on which the operator made $5000," he remarked, "and the Government lost $5000—and this boat
was half way across the China Sea,
when they turned back to get lost cargo at Manila. Anybody can see that a system whereby the operator has nothing at stake, whereby
the Government loses and he wins,
is a system that makes for inefficiency."

"Generally business conditions of the shipping world," Lasker said,
"are sick and the morale of all men on sea boats because of all these conditions is likewise pretty sick. The floodtide of the loss from the polices of the past cannot be stopped for months to come."

RAILROAD RATES
MUST COME DOWN

Commission Orders Roads to File Statements of Comparative Costs This Year and Last by Aug. 5.

COMPLAINTS MADE
RATES ARE TOO HIGH

Present Passenger Fare Considered Economically Too Much and Unreasonable,
Says the Statement.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, July 19.—
The first indication that members of the Missouri Public Service Commission are seriously considering a reduction in freight and passenger rates on intra-state traffic, came in an order of the commission yesterday to Missouri Railroads to file
with the commission, by August 4, statements of operating expenses for the first five months of this year as compared with a like period last year and an estimate on savings in operating costs for this month compared with July, 1920.

The commission prefaced these orders with a statement that complaints against existing freight rates
and passenger rates are unreasonably
high and have been made to it.
During the period of the war and since utility rates in Missouri have gone up and up and up without a break. The last extensive increasment was that to the Laclede Gas Light Company. After that increase a member of the commission is known to have remarked that
"we are over the hill now and the next changes probably will be downward."

The statement of the commission
on railroads, which was agreed upon
at a session of the commission yesterday, at which were present Chairman Kurtz and Commissioners Bean, Flad and McLure, is the first concrete indication that ranges downward of rates on freight or passenger traffic.

The commission reviewed its order
of August 26, 1920, and Feb. 7, 1921,
which allowed the railroads to collect varying increases, a freight and passenger rate increase of 30 per cent increase on passenger fares, from Sept. 1 last to Sept. 1
this year.

Changes in Cost.
It then set out that "it appears to the commission that changes have been made in the operation of the railroads resulting in material decreases in the cost of operation; that complaints have been made to the commission that present rates and charges on farm products tend to restrict the movement of such commodities; and that the present passenger fare (3.6 cents per mile) is economically too high, unreasonable
within itself and prevents the full use of defendants' facilities."

In order that the commission
may be fully advised in the premises
each of the defendants to this proceeding shall, on or before Aug. 5, 1921, file with this commission detailed statements covering operations
for the first five months of the calendar year 1921, as compared to the same period for the year 1920. Such statements shall show tonnage,
by commodities, moving intrastate
in Missouri, number of passengers handled, revenue from selected commodities and passenger business and details as to cost of operation, including maintenance, expense per train mile, per passenger train mile and such other information as is available.

Estimate of Expense.
"Defendants shall compile and file with the commission an estimate of operating expenses for July, 1920, as compared with July, 1921. This may be accomplished by using actual figures for the month of May, 1921,
using rates of pay and working rules
as effective July 1, 1921.

"It is, therefore, ordered that on or before the 5th day of August, each of the defendants shall file in the office of this commission detailed reports showing the result of operations for the first five months of the calendar year 1921, as compared to the same five months during the calendar year 1920 and a report showing an estimate of the savings in operating costs for the month of July, 1921, based on reduction in wages
and changes in working conditions."

DUNDEE AND JACKSON EASILY WIN CONTESTS
By the Associated Press.
PHILADELPHIA, July 19.—Johnny Dundee, New York, outpointed George Chaney, Baltimore, in eight rounds of fast fighting last night. The New York boxer had the better of every round. Both weighed in at 124 pounds.

Willie Jackson, New York, gave Jimmy Hanlon of Denver a beating fast, but one-sided. The fight was the advantage in every one of the eight rounds. The New Yorker tried hard for a knockout in the last round, and although he hit Hanlon almost at will, the bell found the Denver boxer still on his feet and apparently strong.

It Appears That, Although They Abolished Freak Ball Pitching, They Left Us the Freak Ball

Carpentier and Gibbons Matched; Will Weigh 176

St. Paul Light-heavyweight Agrees to Battle Second Week in October.

TERMS NOT MADE PUBLIC

Rickard, However, Declares American Will Not Receive the $60,000 Sought.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch. NEW YORK, July 19.—Tommy Gibbons drew a capital prize in the form of a match with Georges Carpentier for the light-heavyweight championship of the world.

Tex Rickard signed the St. Paul boy, after a long conference with Eddie Kane, manager of the rising boxing light. Carpentier and Gibbons probably will meet in Madison Square during the second week in October.

Rickard holds Carpentier's signature, the Frenchman agreeing to accept a fight, before he sailed for France last week.

The weight has been set at 176 pounds, which will be an easy notch for both men to hit.

Rickard has the choice of two places in which to put on his big show—either the pine saucer at Jersey City or in Madison Square Garden.

In signing, Kane told Rickard that he would have Tom Gibbons in New York three weeks before the day of boxing, or sooner, if Tex desired. Rickard would not give out the terms of agreement. It is certain that Gibbons has received no such sum as $60,000, the amount Kane is said to have hinted at in Chicago, a few

OUT-OF-TOWN OARSMEN TO COMPETE WITH LOCAL CREWS IN SOUTHWESTERN

Plans for the Southwestern Rowing Association regatta which will be held at Creve Coeur Lake, Aug. 20 and 21, were made at an executive meeting of that organization last night. It was announced that crews from Grand Rapids, Peoria, Quincy and the Lincoln Park Boat Club of Chicago would probably attend, besides those of the local harbor.

The order of events will be as follows: Saturday (junior day)—four-oared, single shells, barge, quarter-mile dash for singles, doubles, eight-oared shells; Sunday (senior day), the order will be the same, with the half-mile dash for fours substituted for the quarter-mile dash for singles. All events will be over a one-mile course, except the barge, which will be of three-quarter mile duration.

Entry blanks for the national regatta at Buffalo, Aug. 5 and 6, have been received, and it is expected that a number of local crews will be entered.

days ago. Rickard said at the time he would not pay Gibbons this sum.

Others Sought Match.

Gibbons is a lucky man. Brennan, Martin, Miske, Burke and Johnny Wilson had also asked for the chance to meet the Frenchman for the light-heavyweight title.

Tom Gibbons is the famous brother of the once famous Mike. Tommy has been coming while Mike has been gradually sliding down the chute. A larger man than the St. Paul phantom, Tommy found his way into the light-heavyweight and heavyweight classes. He has piled up a long list of knockouts during the last few months, and while some of his victims were not men of the Dempsey type, still they were put to sleep.

In St. Paul they firmly believe that Gibbons can whip Jack Dempsey. Until Carpentier expressed a desire to meet Tommy for the undisputed light-heavyweight title, Gibbons seemed to be traveling toward a bout with the heavyweight champion.

WRAY'S COLUMN

About Carpentier's Next Foo.

REPORTS of the matching of Georges Carpentier and Tom Gibbons for the light-heavyweight championship of the world, next October, will arouse the curiosity of fans in this vicinity as to the standing and merit of Gibbons. The St. Paul man's name has flared into headlines in the last 12 months, due to a sequence of knockouts scored by him.

About the best things that can be said of Gibbons are that he can "do" about the same weight as Carpentier and that he is about the best man of this size the country can, at this time, send to the wars. As for being the "next best man to Dempsey"—well, some persons never could understand a joke.

Gibbons, to begin with, is a late bloomer. He is nearly 32 years old, according to the guide, and has been fighting since 1913 only. If this good book tells the truth, we doubt this, somewhat, as 24 seems a very late age for the brother of a boxer as celebrated as was Mike Gibbons, to take an interest in his brother's profession.

From Mediocrity to Fame.

UP to 1921 there was nothing in Gibbons' record to convince one that he was anything more worthy than the usual safety-first heavyweight. He no-declared his way through bouts with Capt. Bob Roper, the bounding elk Harry Greb, Clay Turner, Hugh Walker, Greek "Knockout" Brown and other ordinary heavyweights. He appeared to be "like anybody else" up to this year; then he suddenly leaped into a record of 12 successive knockouts—at the age of 31, too.

It is true there were no fighters of class in the long list of his victims. Hugh Walker, a third-rater, was about the best of those he demolished. Some of the knockouts bore the earmarks of setups, such as that with Willie Meehan, who quit standing up in the first round of their bout, last June, in Cleveland. It took him 11 rounds

The Mystery of the Cook's Pet Parrot

A FUNNY paper recently.
SLIPPED ME a good laugh.
WITH A wheeze about.
A FAMOUS ventriloquist.
AND WHY he had quit.
THE VAUDEVILLE stage.
IT SAID he discovered.
HE COULD make more jack.
SELLING WOODEN parrots.
SO WHEN I got home.
I PASSED the joke.
TO OUR cook, who owns.
BOTH A speechless parrot.
AND A sense of humor.
BUT SHE muffed it.
BECAUSE SHE didn't know.
WHAT A ventriloquist was.
SO I had to explain it.
AND ON the way out.
I BLEW just a whiff.
OF CIGARETTE smoke.
AT HER amusing old.
FOOL OF a parrot.

AND I said, "Poll.
HOW D'YOU like it?"
AND TO this day.
IT'S GOT me guessing.
WHETHER IT was cook.

Caddies' Tourney To Open Monday

Qualifying Round to Be Followed by Match Play, With Final Friday Morning.

The fourth annual city golf championship for caddies will be held over the 18-hole municipal golf courses in Forest Park, starting next Monday morning. The competition will be sponsored by the Forest Park golf club. The winner and runner-up will receive medals presented by the Post-Dispatch.

The 18-hole medal play qualifying round will be held Monday morning, with the holders of the 22 low scores entering the match play for the title. The schedule from then on will be as follows: Tuesday morning, first round matches; Wednesday morning, second round; Thursday morning, semifinals; Friday morning, final.

Judging from advice received from the various caddy shacks in St. Louis and St. Louis County, this year's event will attract a larger entry than any previous one. Three of the clubs already have announced their representations, which are almost double the size of last year's.

The caddies and runners-up in the tournament thus far have taken the medals to six of the local clubs. The record is as follows: 1918—winner, Frank Donovan, Country Club; runner-up, Earl Howells, Normandie; 1919—winner, James Kosman, Glen Echo; runner-up, Eddie Heid, Forest Park; 1920—winner, Walter Murray, Midland Valley; runner-up, Richard Blanton, Westwood.

Caddies who desire to enter the tournament should submit their names to their caddy masters. The only two regulations to be complied with are that the entrant be a regularly registered caddy at the club which he represents, and that he be under 16 years of age. The caddy masters will send a list of names of the boys who desire to play. The entry lists will be closed Friday evening.

RUTH HITS HOME RUN MEASURING 560 FEET

Babe Ruth's thirty-sixth home run of the season, yesterday, was the longest of his career—560 feet. It was made in Detroit, where Hall-mann of the Tigers recently was credited with a 619-foot home run.

C. of C. Entry Closes.

Entries for the annual Junior Chamber of Commerce tennis tournament will close today at 5 o'clock. Players may enter through Clifford M. Hicks, 253 Pierce Building, Olive 641. There will be two events, singles and doubles. Woodward, Brown is the present champion.

UBS ARE WILLING TO TRADE SOUTHPAW VAUGHN.

the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 19.—Jim Vaughn, pitcher, is on the market and may be obtained by some organization that has some young athletes who will help the Cubs and who at the same time desire a left-handed slunderman.

"We are not going to p-diddle him," said President Veeck, speaking of Vaughn, who is now serving a 30-day suspension for infraction of the rules, "because he will have to pitch for the Cubs or not at all; unless we receive a satisfactory offer."

LEONARD PROMISES TO BOX ON LABOR DAY

the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 19.—Benny Leonard, lightweight champion, has made promise to fight at Benton Harbor, Mich., on Labor day, according to an announcement made today by Promoter Lloyd Fitzsimmons. Leonard's opponent is now being sought with capabilities that Rocky Kansas may be selected. Leonard was to have fought Freedman at Benton Harbor on July 4, but was unable to do so on account of illness.

Mrs. Harding, once newspaper woman, is hostess to Washington's women correspondents on Presidential yacht, Mayflower.

A lightning freak. Section of gigantic smokestack in New York ripped out.

A novelty sport hat, with a space for a cigarette case and a flap containing a mirror to hide it. With flap down, both mirror and case are hidden.

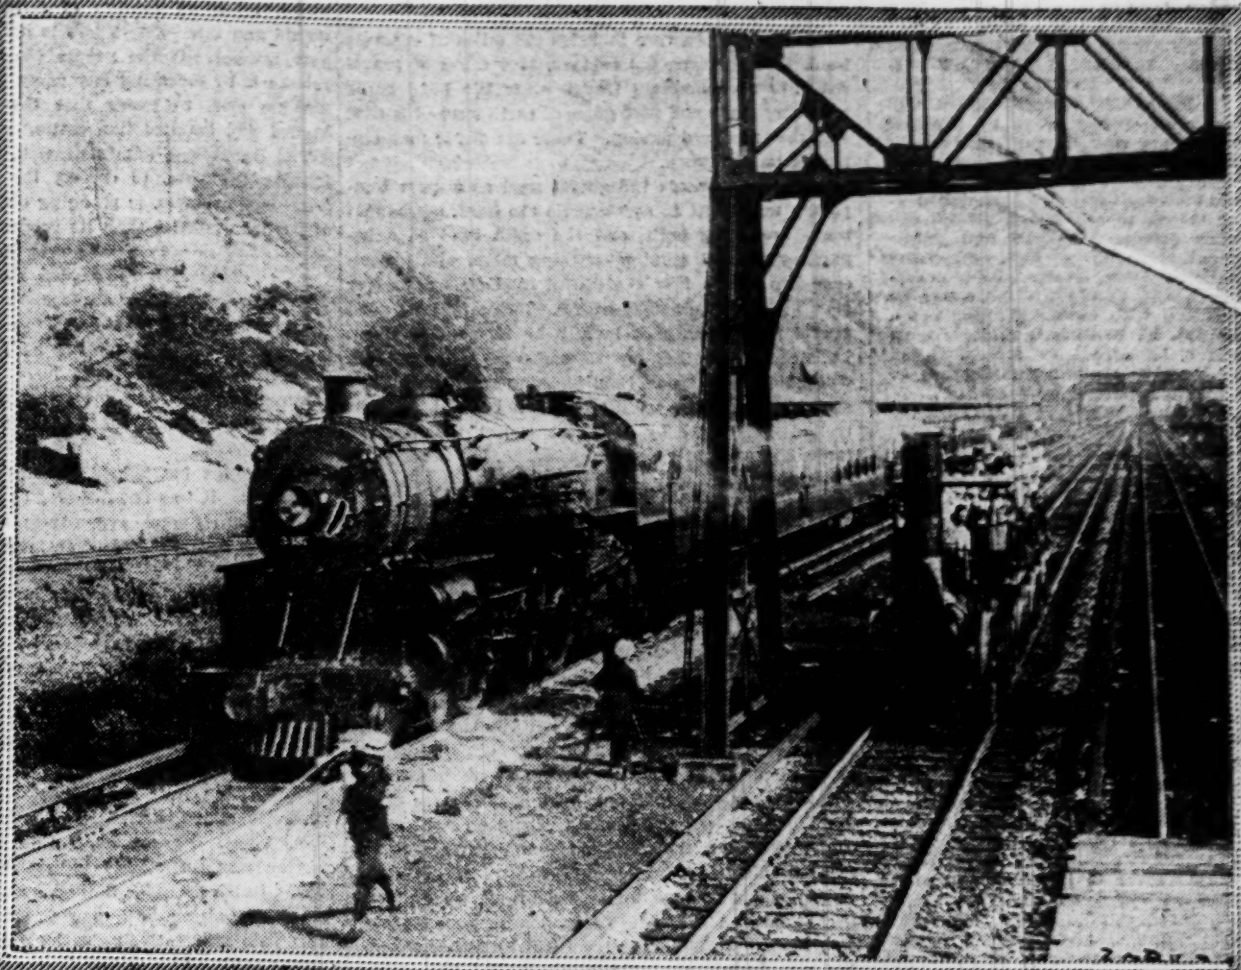

Direct hit by army plane bomb on former German destroyer, G-103, in tests off Virginia Capes.

One-man parade surprises Washington. Dr. W. J. Van Kirk of Youngstown, O., walks alone along Pennsylvania avenue exhibiting "world flag" he designed to be presented to disarmament congress for adoption.

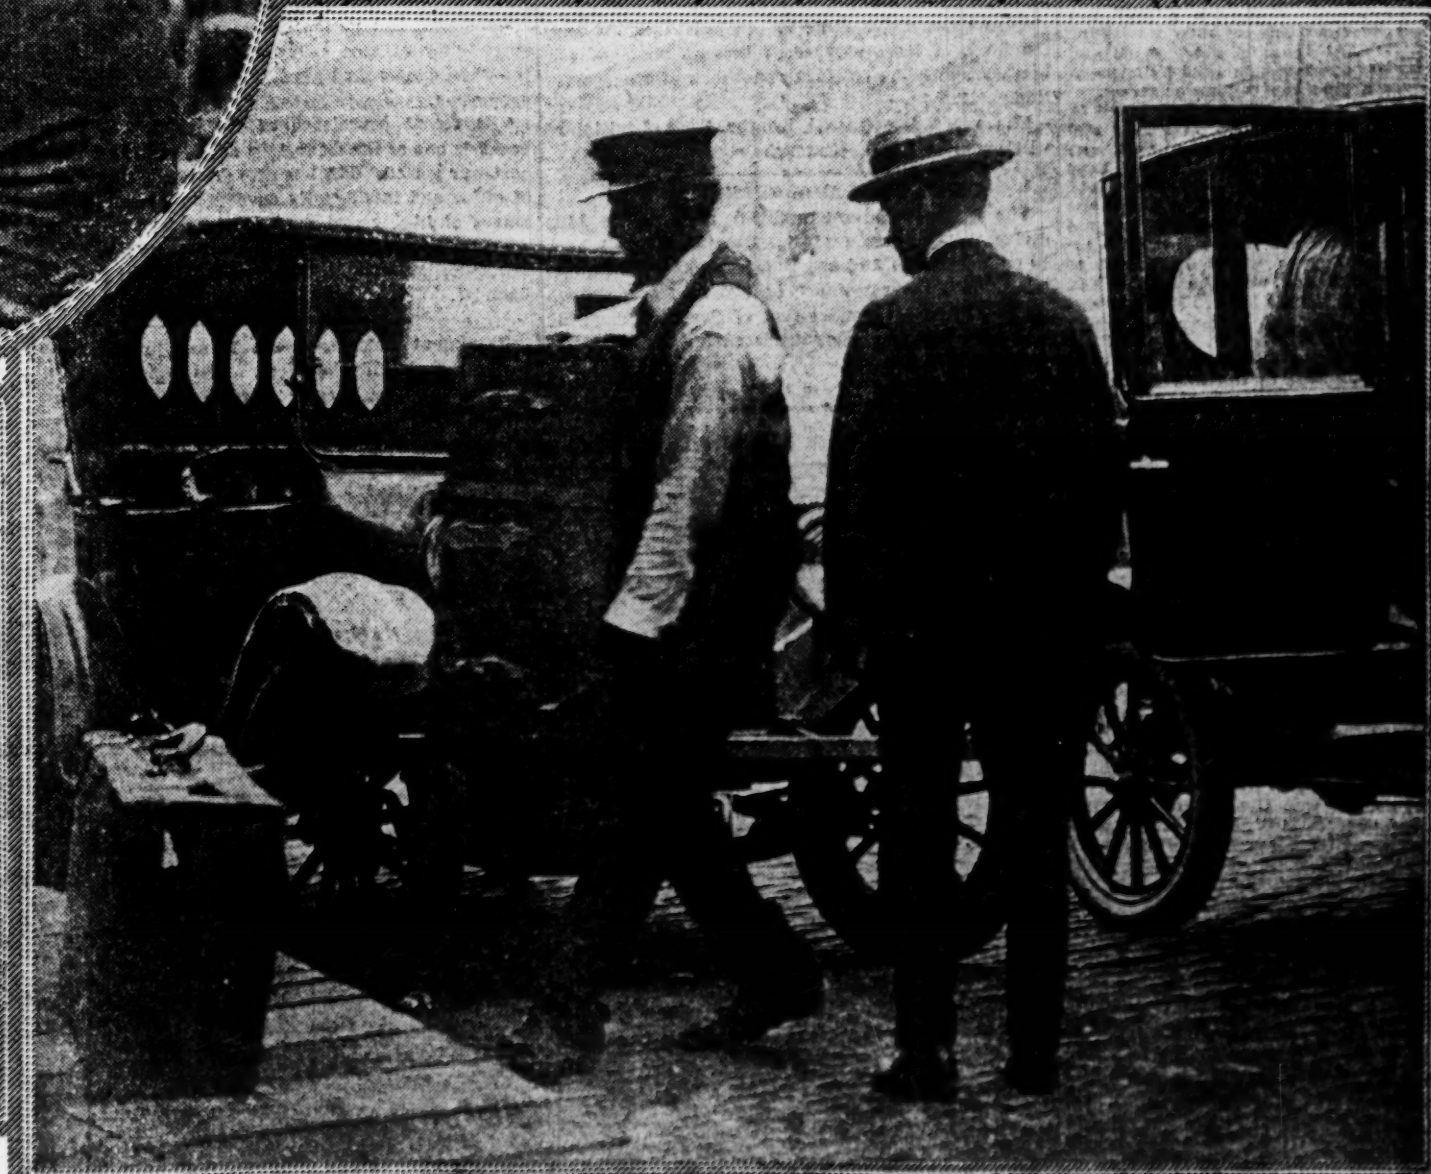

French sportsman, who married the former Duchess of Marlborough—Jacques Balsan.

Oldest and newest American passenger trains. Twentieth Century Limited and the De Witt Clinton, which made its first trip 90 years ago, line up for journey to Chicago. After running under its own steam to New York City's outskirts, the De Witt Clinton train was placed on freight cars.

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles, that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news, always be drastically independent, never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Thirsty Dumb Animals.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
I NOTICE during this terrific heat lately that the horses and dogs are suffering for the need of water. There does not appear that much consideration has been given these animals in the shape of well regulated water troughs. Have the city and the humane society forgotten these poor dumb animals? When I see the overloaded trucks with the poor horses, straining themselves to the limit, under this hot sun, the least we can do is to quench the poor beasts' thirst.

One notices fountains everywhere for the humans to quench their thirst, but the animals appear to have been forgotten. Where are our good and kind friends, the humane society. Have they forgotten our dumb and faithful friends? Teamsters, be considerate and give your horses a drink, remember they are dumb and cannot help themselves, and suffer during this heat.

I would like our city fathers to give some consideration in placing more watering troughs for the animals, and to remember the automobile has not altogether displaced the horse, and we still have him with us, doing his duty and suffering uncomplainingly.

AN ANIMAL LOVER.

Nutrition.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
IN your recent editorial, "Children and Malnutrition," you are right when you say that it is due more to ignorance than to poverty. Bread, the so-called staff of life, which is the principal food of the poor, is in reality a false staff. The wheat flour of which bread is made is refined to such a high degree that the vital mineral elements which the covering of the wheat kernel contains are almost entirely missing from the bread. These are absolutely necessary for the proper nutrition of the body and without them, human beings cannot be properly developed. Defective teeth are most always due to this cause. Vegetables, as usually prepared, are also of impaired value, being boiled in water, which extracts the vitamins. The water, containing the very essence of the food, is then thrown away. And then we wonder what is wrong with our nerves.

READER.

The Nation's Obligation.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
ANY man who will not defend the flag that protects him is not worthy of the name man; any nation that fails to protect her defenders is undermining the fundamental principles on which our Government rests.

There is no privilege within the power of America to grant; there are no responsibilities more pressing than the proper care and treatment for the wounded and disabled veterans of the World War. For those brave and fearless men who went down into the fields of glory to die and die for the eternal right, and fell, America owes a debt she can never repay.

If the wounded soldiers had failed in the supreme hour, when humanity and civilization (our Government told us) called for real men, what would have been the fate of the greatest republic the sun ever shone on? Why do we issue by talking about taxes? What kind of a tax does Mr. Harding think the individual American would have had to pay had Germany won the war? Yes, and not next year, 10 or 20 years hence. Read the history of Germany collecting her debt from France. F. M. KELSIO.

An Amendment to the Constitution.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Rifle Range or Shop?

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
IN an article in Wednesday's paper it was stated that a recommendation in regard to setting up a target for rifle practice at Cleveland High had been approved by the Board of Education. It was further stated that this target remained from war time, when a junior reserve officers' training corps was in operation at the above-mentioned school. This statement is erroneous. This training corps did exist, but only in talk. In the fall of 1918, at which time the war was a freshman, the names of all boys interested were taken and then the matter dropped, without further discussion. It was understood that all equipment was to be furnished by the Government, in addition to a small compensation, also to be paid by the national Government, to all members taking part in this training corps. As stated above, the matter did not materialize, until last May, when about 150 names were taken again. The older pupils, remembering past experiences, did not respond.

With the present crowding of the schools, should space be taken by a rifle range that could otherwise be used in regular shop work? If it must be erected, why not put it on the campus?

A CLEVELAND SENIOR.

WISCONSIN AND MISSOURI.

While the Missouri Senate and House are wrangling over the question whether Missouri shall have a disconnected hodge-podge of dirt and clay bound gravel roads or a State highway system of hard-surfaced roads, with secondary gravel roads, Wisconsin is rushing through the biggest hard-road program in her history.

Wisconsin's program includes 280 miles of concrete road, 8000 culverts, 600 bridges, 1000 miles of gravel roads to accommodate travel while the hard roads are being made and 2200 miles of earth road—the first step towards hard paving. There are 25,000 men employed on the work.

Wisconsin regards the gravel road as a mere temporary makeshift to serve while the hard, permanent roads are being built, and the earth road as a beginning of road making—nothing more. Its experience has shown that the gravel road does not serve even for farm-to-market travel. Two originally good gravel roads, one used mainly by farmers for marketing and the other for passenger traffic as detours while the main trunk road is being constructed, are examples in point. With the two roads being patrolled constantly by the best expert maintenance force, they do not support the traffic, but are rapidly becoming rough and impassable.

Wisconsin has found that any kind of a road except the hard-surfaced, solid, permanent road is a makeshift and that the hard-surfaced, permanent road, no matter what it costs, is worth the cost. It represents true economy—economy of transportation and maintenance. "It isn't a question of debating whether or not we shall pay $30,000 or $37,000 a mile for links of our trunk highway system," is the way the Wisconsin authorities sum up the road situation. "We cannot see the traffic through. For the traffic in any state is bigger than all the petty economies that have handicapped the world since time began."

Interviewing A. R. Hirst, Wisconsin's State Highway Engineer and the leading expert on road building in the West, the Chicago Tribune, giving an outline of this year's program, says Mr. Hirst is emphatic in his demand for immediate action on roads everywhere on the basis of economic value and not cost per mile. We quote the Hirst interview because his own statement on good roads and Wisconsin's work is clear, brief, forceful:

Close observation of the building up of American traffic has convinced me that as long as everybody producing these roads is getting only a fair profit we can't pay too much for them, because no matter how fast we may go, there is no American state that can produce the highway system it ought to have as soon as it ought to have it, and we cannot see one or two or three years drop out, a dead loss in our highway improvement program. So we in Wisconsin are paying the price. We are building almost three times as many miles this year as we did last year and twice as many as we did in any year of our history, because our people need the employment and because we are convinced that, no matter how fast we go, we can never produce the roads as fast as we actually need them to carry on the State's business.

Our work is not confined to the few miles of concrete surfaced alone. We are building something like 2000 miles of other types simply because we cannot furnish money and mechanical equipment fast enough to build concrete roads fast enough to accommodate traffic of the State. Our little job right now includes construction of 280 miles of concrete, 8000 culverts and 600 bridges, building of 1000 miles of gravel road, grading of 2200 miles of earth road, and patrol maintenance of 7500 miles of the State system. In all about 25,000 men are engaged in the work.

The sum of $1,500,000,000 is being expended elsewhere this year to take care of rapidly growing traffic. Is Missouri to be wholly out of this good-roads path of progress?

If Missouri's road-bond money is wasted on disconnected dirt or gravel or clay-bound gravel (whatever that is) roads; if we do not begin immediately a State highway system of hard roads, with the ultimate objective of completing a thorough State system of hard roads and hard-surfacing all roads, Missouri will be out of the running. We shall have no system of roads and in a little while no roads. Shunned by visitors and tourists and the moving population from other states, Missouri will step in its own folly. It will stick in the mud and stifle in the dust—the one conspicuous backwoods, backward, unprogressive State in the Union; in the end, the State of least prosperity, because no state can prosper under the costliest conditions of transportation.

The roads law passed by the State Legislature will make or break Missouri.

THE REPUBLICAN GERRYMANDER.

The Republican congressional redistricting bill divides the State so that the Republicans will have 10 solid districts and the Democrats three solid districts, with the remainder of two or three, according to the apportionment plan of Congress, doubtful. The State is to be gerrymandered for the benefit of the Republican party.

The Republicans excuse their gerrymander on the ground that the State was gerrymandered by the Democrats when they were in power. It is true that the Democrats packed nearly all the districts for their party. Their gerrymander was disgraceful, but that does not excuse the Republicans for doing the rotten thing the Democrats did. There is no excuse for it. It is prompted by an unscrupulous partisan spirit which takes no account of fairness or of popular rights and interests. There is nothing worse than a gerrymander. If the people were wise they would rebuke it by defeating any party guilty of it; if, for nothing else, to prove that the people cannot be herded and handled like cattle.

The Republican administration, elected by a great independent vote, to correct the evils of the long Democratic regime, is plunging deeper into the slime of partisan politics than its predecessors.

THE JOB MUST BE FINISHED.

Expectations of an adverse vote Aug. 2 on the issue of whether a convention to draw up a new Constitution for Missouri shall be held in the near future or postponed for 20 years have been expressed in Jefferson City. In a majority of the cases where such views are held the wish undoubtedly is father to the thought.

The project for a new Constitution is a people's movement. It was not fathered at Jefferson City, but by individuals and organizations throughout the State who became tired of seeing constitutional limitation raised as a barrier for progress in nearly every line of endeavor. It is sponsored by an organization with ramifications throughout the State, supported by donations limited to $50 each, and is endorsed by 14 state-wide organizations and numerous local professional and business associations.

There is no question of the desire of the State for an up-to-date Constitution. That desire was formally expressed last November, when the amendment insuring bipartisan election of delegates to constitutional conventions was carried by a majority of more than 76,000 votes. For an expression of sentiment, that election was sufficiently indicative. But it did not legally finish the job. Before there can be a constitutional convention or a new Constitution the people must vote affirmatively on the proposition providing for the calling of a convention to rewrite the Constitution. Later the people must vote on the adoption of the new document submitted by the convention.

The goal now to be attained is to get people to the polls on Aug. 2 in sufficient numbers to cast a representative vote. Failure to win that goal would mean a waste of effort that would set the State back a score of years. The issue now is not to win converts to a new Constitution, but to get the people to the polls.

"Three Killed in Pistol Fight in Kentucky." Verily, normalcy is with us again.

OUTLAW RESPECTABILITY.

The assumption by unauthorized groups of men of the right of chastisement of fellow citizens for any offense whatsoever is never justifiable. This right and this duty belong to the law alone. If the law cannot convict for crime then there must be a reasonable doubt of guilt. Even were this not so, the policy of extrajudicial punishment is even more dangerous than the crimes which it is sought to punish outside the usual processes of the law.

A perfect instance of the hypocrisy which may actuate men engaged in the self-constituted enforcement of alleged righteousness was the treatment accorded a woman victim at Tenaha, Tex. To punish the alleged crime of bigamy, of which the woman had yet to be convicted by law, the assumed champions of virtue stripped her of her clothing and tarred and feathered her. If the woman had been a man this mode of trial and punishment would have been as wrong. The fact of her sex, however, convicted her captors of an utter lack of decency and, at the same time, subjects them to the suspicion of a licentious purpose rendered the more contemptible by the cloak of morality which covered it.

The persecutions of man by man in the name of righteousness have been among the most cruel in the history of the race. They are linked with the worst fevers of fanaticism and the darkest days of the denial of civil and political liberty. The so-called respectability of men engaged in them renders them the more dangerous by tending to mollify public condemnation.

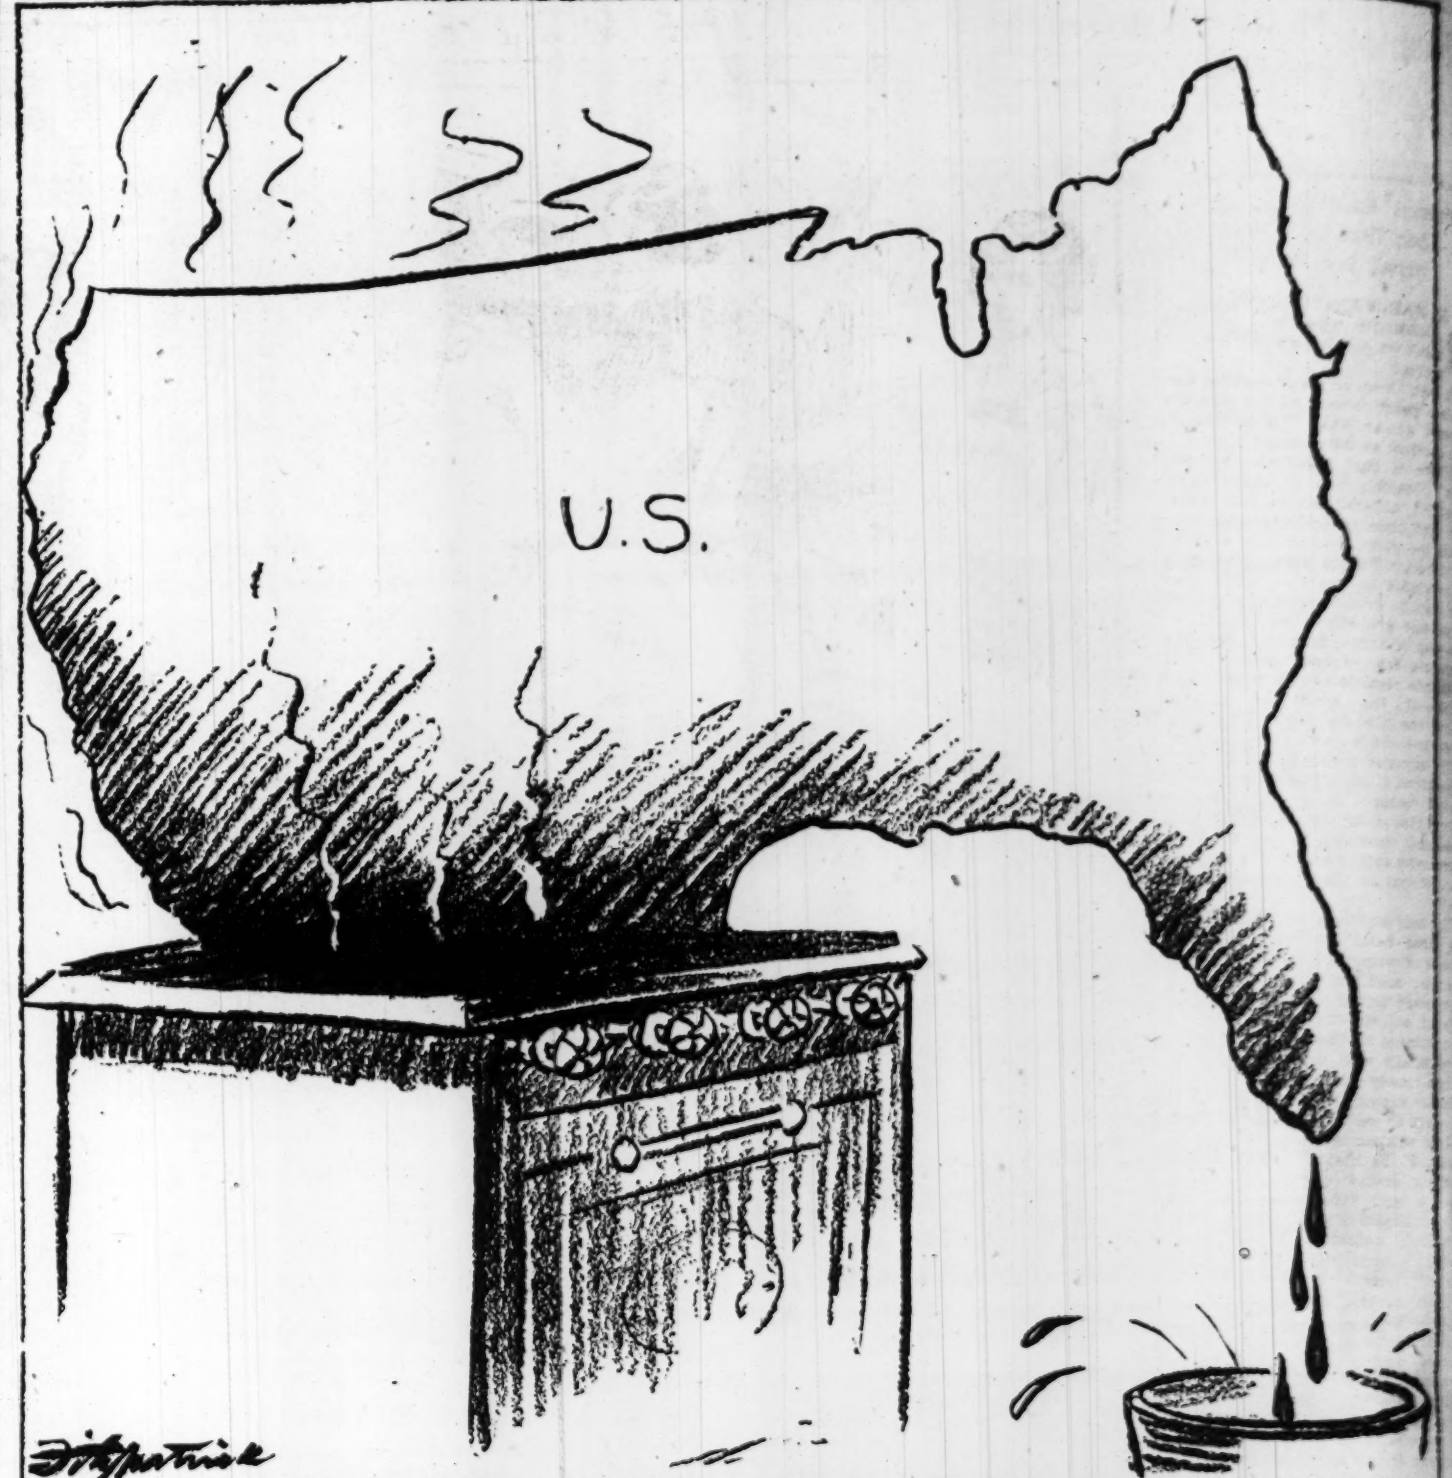

The recent prevalence of these practices in the South is one of the depressing aspects of the troubled post-war period. Officials who are true to their oaths of office and intelligently devoted to American guarantees of liberty and the right of trial by jury will spare no effort to exterminate the activities of outlaw moralists and illegal tribunals of trial and punishment.

MR. ANTWERP'S OPINION.

"A T a time when our earth is all but explored, the poles found and only a few cleaning up expeditions still out, one contemplates with amazement that howling wilderness, the human mind," Mr. Antwerp said.

"What is the state of human intelligence after all these thousands of years? In China and India less than 5 per cent of the population can read. Superstition is so widespread we dislike to talk about it for fear of offending one another. The idle and effigies to this and that religion around the world testify eloquently to the pitiful failure of human thought. Imagine the rudiments of education just beginning to reach the masses in Russia and the public school just beginning to make its appearance in Mexico!"

"If somebody wants to explore something, there is no necessity for him to sit down like Alexander, sighing for other worlds to conquer. Let him tackle one of the dark continents of the human mind. If there is some Nansen or Amundsen who despairs of finding another pole, let him penetrate that metaphysical no-man's land which human ignorance and superstition have peopled with everything from gods to hobgoblins."

"If you will recall what people think and then sit quietly somewhere at night you can hear the wolves howl in the great wilderness of man's mental incapacity. That wilderness has never been conquered. Much of it has never been explored. Now and then somebody has cleared out a little place and raised his voice in that aching wail, but the bush of human ignorance and superstition has always rushed in after his brief day and healed the wound."

"The world needs 500 years devoted to education. If we had 500 years without war and could spend that money for schools we could get somewhere. Meanwhile, we need explorers to go out in advance and map out the country. It is a big country, and despite everybody from Socrates and Christ to H. G. Wells and Woodrow Wilson, it has never been charted."

No. 99782: Herewith a clipping from the Moberly Democrat of Sunday morning, being the aftermath of a cakewalking contest held last Friday night on the main street of this city to determine the couple best suited to represent Moberly at an Emancipation day celebration to be held at Columbia. At this celebration a grand contest is to be held with a good cash prize to the winner.

It appears that Joe McClure, porter for many years at the Merchants' Hotel, has twice been married, and the validity of the second marriage is somewhat questioned by his first wife.

Notice to Everybody.
It was not Mrs. Rachel McClure who did the cakewalking, but Joe McClure's wife. I am Joe McClure's legal wife. I have always been a church worker, and do not approve of cakewalking.—Rachel McClure.

Attorney-General Barrett seems to fear that the Sheriff of St. Louis County was caught high and wet.

Unless we misjudge the situation those best minds the President has been calling in have put him just about where the allies want him. They are all coming over to the disarmament conference, and what they will chiefly talk about when they get the floor will be the League of Nations. This will make Messrs. Harding, Hughes, Lodge, etc., squirm around on their chairs worse than so many ants on a hot brick. If no best mind has dropped in to tell the President this, one ought to do it. The thing might otherwise be such a surprise to our side that we might go in suddenly without consulting the Senate. One thing more of which we may be sure: the sort of thing said about the League of Nations in the Senate during the debate on the peace treaty, and the sort of thing said about it on the stump during our presidential election, will not be repeated before the various nations and sundry assembled in Washington next fall. You can do a lot of things at home that you would not care to do out. Some people are disposed to believe the President has dished the chance for disarmament by including the Pacific problem in his invitation, but others do not agree that this is the case. The New Republic, for instance, thinks good has been done by amplifying the scope of the Bush resolution. Let us hope. Also let us hope there will not be any Democrats with cracked lips around when the oratory begins at the conference in Washington.

TAKING NONESSENTIALS IN BULGARIA.

(From the Sofia Outlook.)
RUSTCHUK, June 15, 1921.—The Rustchuk District Council closed its session two days ago. Before closing the session, the following new taxes were approved by the council: Weddings, without regard to nationality or religion, in which musical instruments, Turkish trumpets and fiddle-players are employed (with the exception of the use of one Turkish trumpet and one drum or two violins), are taxed by 500 leva; women who use summer parasols pay a tax of 50 leva; men or women who have "luxurious" dogs pay a tax of 200 leva; women who walk in the streets, the store, or the restaurants wearing decorative dresses or skirts more than 30 centimeters from the ground or who wear diaphanous stockings pay a tax of 500 leva; all persons, irrespective of sex or age, who wear gloves from April 15 to Sept. 15, without a medical certificate showing that their health requires it, pay a tax of 200 leva; all persons, regardless of sex or age, who wear golden decorations, such as rings, bracelets, necklaces, or cordons, pay a tax of 300 leva; all who take "luxurious" dogs into restaurants, gardens, etc., pay a tax of 500 leva; every man or woman younger than 50 years, who carries walking sticks, unless his health requires it, pays a tax of 100 leva. Young girls of well-to-do families, who accept employment as servants, pay a tax of 200 leva.

Every one who wears shoes higher than 30 centimeters, pays a tax of 500 leva; women who go out with fur skins on their shoulders or in their hands (muffs), pay a tax of 500 leva; every one who has a baby carriage and takes the baby out in it in the city pays a tax of 500 leva. For the use of a motor truck in the district a tax of 500 leva is paid, and for use in the city a tax of 1000 leva is paid. Every private, luxurious carriage, or cabriolet, drawn by two horses or by one, pays a tax of 500 leva.

The MIRROR of PUBLIC OPINION

FRANCE AND GERMANY.

GUSTAVE HERVE in the Victoire of Paris.
THE new German Government asks us to do away with the sanctions that we enforced against its predecessor. What sanctions? First the occupation of the three coal basins of the right bank of the Rhine, Ruhrort, Duisburg, and Düsseldorf, and then the establishment of a customs barrier round the whole German district that we occupy since the armistice to the profit of the reparations commission. What will be the answer to the Berlin Government which says: "You enforced sanctions against my predecessor because he refused to accept your agencies, but I have accepted them. As well as accepted your figures of $132,000,000,000 as well as the arrangement of the system of obligations in three series as you desired. I accepted to disarm according to the limits of the treaty and to have the war criminals judged by the Supreme Court at Leipzig. Your sanctions are no longer justified." This demand is just, so evidently but that no honest man can dispute the fact. To take sanctions against a people because they refuse to carry out their obligations. They yield and submit. We have no valid reason today for remaining in Ruhrort, in Duisburg, and Düsseldorf and maintaining a customs barrier, unless when we took the sanctions we had hypocritical thoughts at the back of our mind of preparing the annexation of the Rhineland by isolating it from the rest of Germany by a customs barrier, in spite of the Versailles treaty. All we can say is that we want to wait still a few weeks to see whether Bavaria disarms and how things shape themselves in Upper Silesia; but it would be an outrageous injustice not to recognize in principle that we ought shortly to evacuate the coal basins and abolish our customs barrier as soon as the last conditions of the ultimatum have been carried out.

THE PULLMAN COMPANY.

From the Survey.
ONE of the oldest industrial controversies in the United States was brought to a conclusion when the United States Railroad Labor Board decided that the Pullman Co. must meet the union representatives chosen by its employees to discuss wage changes. The corporation had expressed willingness to confer with a delegation assembled under the auspices of a "company union" but it demurred at treating with the spokesman of organized labor. The Railroad Board ruled that the carriers and the representatives of employees and that the company could not substitute for the union delegates a specially selected group more to its liking. The significance of the decision is to be found, however, not in the fact that the Railroad Labor Board has upheld the validity of collective bargaining. That has been done in other decisions, notably in the recent insistence of the board that the rules covering working conditions which were formulated during the period of Federal control, be continued until the railroad men made new agreements. The Transportation Act was in fact written with a view to a clear acceptance of collective bargaining, and unless the Labor Board had determined to abrogate the law, no one would have been so open. The real importance of the Pullman award is, on the other hand, to be found in the fact that after a generation the Federal Government has found a way to terminate the intermittent struggle begun in the early days of Cleveland's second administration, the unionist, challenged the power of George M. Pullman, master of the company which still bears his name. Now at another period of depression when in many respects affairs parallel conditions of Cleveland's second administration, the Federal Government which ruthlessly defeated the great Pullman strike, orders as a matter of law the recognition of that principle of collective bargaining for the seeking of which Debs went to jail 27 years ago. The cycle has been completed and a new chapter in industrial relations has been begun.

Fashion From C to Hos

Reformers Have Their Time Versal, Say

It has been a long time since I have seen a woman who is not a fashion victim.

When I see a woman who is not a fashion victim, I am convinced that she is a woman of the future. I am convinced that she is a woman who is not a fashion victim.

Then, how did woman come to be a fashion victim? I am convinced that she is a woman of the future. I am convinced that she is a woman who is not a fashion victim.

How can all these women be so stupid? I am convinced that she is a woman of the future. I am convinced that she is a woman who is not a fashion victim.

They are not stupid. They are not stupid. They are not stupid. They are not stupid. They are not stupid.

Short skirts. Extravagant. They are not stupid. They are not stupid. They are not stupid. They are not stupid. They are not stupid.

But brainy people. They are not stupid. They are not stupid. They are not stupid. They are not stupid. They are not stupid.

Fashion Swings From Gloves to Hosiery

Reformers Have Only to Bide
Their Time to See Reversal, Says Writer.

By MARGUERITE MARTYN.
REMEMBER when we used to think we couldn't go out without gloves?

It hasn't been so many seasons ago
since a smart remark of the smartly dressed woman was: "I'd as lief go out barefoot as bareheaded!" The woman who said that was a woman of her type. Possibly one of her type,
laughably, unbendingly, in stiff stays,
and then in solitary grandeur
under the glove counter. This type is convinced in her own mind that her taste in dress still is superior to those who are led by every wind of the way of a new fashion. But she receives few except herself. The circulation of the glove counter is regarded as her passe and she thinks—if the multitude thinks:
"Now, the climate hasn't changed.
Then, how did women ever, in other winter seasons, endure that superfluous, circulation—impeding, unbecoming? How could women afford gloves for every out-of-door season, since they never were an expensive article and with perspiration ruinous to their texture and color?"

The lady at the glove counter, on the other hand, marvels that such crowds of women of every stamp
of condition, from the minimum wage earner to the show-piece
of wealth—from the independent splinter to the mother of a large family who must observe her budget closely—the lady at the glove counter, knowing what it costs to be
and as well as well gloved, mar-vels at this motley mass of women demanding always silk, the finest silk, and often times silk of beautiful shades of gray, taupe, fawn,
match delicately tinted suede
pumps, or some brilliant shade by way of contrast.

"How can all these women of differing financial circumstances, afford for everyday wear, silk hosiery
which we used to regard as luxurious necessaries to be reserved for occasions of state?"

The answer of the most heedful of the proprietress in dress as well as most frivolously inclined would be:

"They are not luxuries. With silk as short as they are, silk hose
are absolutely essential."

Short skirts! Extravagance in ho-sery is but one more consequence of which they are to be blamed. In customing us to exposed, lower limbs they also have had the influence of accustoming us to bare arms.
Each has been said and written and
preached and sung for and against
the short skirt. Evil influences, even
the glove counter, have had the influence of accustoming us to bare arms.
Each has been said and written and
preached and sung for and against
the short skirt. Evil influences, even
the glove counter, have had the influence of accustoming us to bare arms.

But brainy preachers in high places, wasting their eloquence in sermons, would do well to take counsel from the experience of the manufacturers of women's clothing.
Fashion's whims throughout the ages, well they know they are not satisfied with style conditions now, they have only to wait their time. They know the pencil swings back and forth, or that of the wave means the trough
of the wave. Gloveless bare arms, exposed limbs, one would suppose reached their crest, having reached women's dress as near narrowness as the law will permit.
Climate, comfort, reason, have nothing to do with it, the experience of one knows, and the most independent of us wearers of the fashion admit.

Another season or so rolling around, history repeating itself, will be chocking in high collars,
sweeping the ground in long skirts,
with hosiery relegated to obscurity
and gloves again bespeaking the dressed woman.

CREAM PUFFS

FOR delicious cream puffs place
in a saucepan one cup of washed rice, bring to a boil and add all
the water, once two cups of sifted flour,
until it forms a ball that will stick to the sides of the pan.
Cook the paste in a bowl and add, one at a time, six eggs. With a spoon place the mixture in little balls on buttered pans, two inches apart. Bake 20 to 30 minutes in a small hot oven. When cool cut a small slit in the side and fill with whipped cream mixed with seedless raisins or chocolate filling. Dip tops in white frosting.

ITALIAN FRUIT TOAST

TO make bread in slices, remove the crusts and fry a nice brown
in deep fat. Drain and place on a hot plate and pour over a fruit sauce. For the fruit sauce place in a saucepan four tablespoons of sugar, six tablespoons of raisins,
one-half cup of brandy, six tablespoons of finely chopped raw ham,
one-half cup of ground sage, two tablespoons of sugar and three tablespoons of mild vinegar. Cook until sauce is formed.

A Short Story in Three Daily Installments.

SECOND INSTALLMENT.

Margaret met him in the hall.
"Wasn't that Mrs. Blaisdell you were talking with?" she asked.
"Yes," said William, "she was at the railway station to meet some woman who didn't come and she volunteered to drive me home."
"I'm in-m-m," Margaret said. "I wondered how on earth you had happened to be with her. It must have been rather trying."

"Why, no," William said honestly.
"It wasn't trying at all. She—"
He hesitated. He had been about to tell Margaret what Maisie Blaise had said. He always told Margaret everything. But hadn't Maisie implied, by that phrase about trusting him, that he wasn't to repeat what she had said? Of course he could tell Margaret—he wasn't bound to confidences that excluded his wife.
But it might sound rather silly when repeated.

"She what?" Margaret asked.
"She—a—"
William hesitated.

"William," Margaret said, "your trick of beginning a sentence and then pausing indefinitely before going on is most annoying. Will you please go on."

"She struck me as a much more
—well, a much nicer person than I had always supposed she was," William said.

"It's a habit of hers," Margaret said tartly.

"What?" said William.
"I say it's a habit of hers—to strike me as being a much nicer person than they had always supposed."

"Well," said William judiciously,
"she has seemed rather flirtatious."
"Rather," said Margaret.

WILLIAM, with a guile that he did not know he possessed, changed the subject abruptly with an inquiry about the twins.

He did not see Maisie Blaise for several days after their chance meeting at the railway station. He found himself strangely expectant of meeting her. He intended to be just as friendly as he could be when he did meet her. He quite wanted to meet her. He found himself remembering her smile and those lights in her eyes. It was pleasant to remember them. It would be even pleasant to experience them again.

He experienced them again at the country club on Saturday. He was going through the club on his way out after playing 18 holes when he ran plump into Maisie Blaise.

"O. Mr. Hurlbut," said Maisie Blaise.
"I'd be delighted," William said.
He was late for dinner and Margaret was inclined to be petulant
about it.

"I wish you had telephoned," she said.
"I hadn't any idea it was so late,"
William protested.
"But it isn't like you to forget," Margaret countered. "What were you doing, talking to Mrs. Blais-dell?"

"I hope, William," she said lightly, "that Mrs. Blaisdell won't occupy all of your attention while I'm gone."
"What nonsense!" William said.
"I'm perfectly serious," Margaret replied. "Mrs. Blaisdell is a dangerous woman—and you've been
with her twice in the last week."
"Just chance," William said. "I probably shan't so much as meet her on the street while you're away."
"Well," Margaret said, "I really think you ought to be circumspect in my absence. You know what a gossipy place Sparborough is."

"My dear Margaret," said William testily, "are you seriously considering the possibility that I might be gossiped about?"

"Very seriously," Margaret said slowly. "I think, for instance, that you oughtn't to call on Mrs. Blais-dell while I'm away."

"Good God, Margaret," he cried.
"I've ever called on Mrs. Blaisdell while you were here?"

"No," Margaret admitted; "that's why it would be so pointed if you called while I was away."

"But who said I was going to call on her while you were away," William roared.

"You needn't shout," Margaret
said sweetly.

William opened his mouth to speak, thought better of it, and stood staring at Margaret.

"I must say you surprise me," he said. "I feel as if I didn't know you at all. Five minutes ago I couldn't have imagined you saying such things."

"Five days ago," Margaret countered, "I couldn't have imagined you running around with Mrs. Blaisdell."

"But I'm not running around with her," William groaned. "I haven't the slightest desire to run around with her. I don't care if I never see her again."

William was instantly conscious that this last statement was a lie.
He had meant to lie. But what he said was a lie. He wondered if he ought to modify the statement.
He wished he had said, "I don't particularly care if I never see her again." That would have been strong enough.

"I'm awfully glad to hear it, William," Margaret said.

William spent the rest of the evening
reading a new book on business management. It occurred to him that it would be pleasant to call on Maisie Blaise. He caught the idea in the very act of occurring to him. He was shocked at himself for entertaining it. He went so far as to realize that he might actually have called her up on the telephone if it had not been for what Margaret had said. He might even have gone to see her.

"O. Mr. Hurlbut," Maisie said.
"I'm so glad you're in. It's Phil Barker's birthday—and we've just discovered it. We're going to celebrate and we want you to help. Can we call for you in half an hour?"
"Why—why," there was certainly no harm in joining a birthday party of which Maisie happened to be a member; even Margaret could not object to that, "why—I'd be deligtified," William concluded.

"Good for you," said Maisie Blaise.
"We'll be round in 20 minutes, or half an hour at most. We're going to the club and dance."

William hastened into his dinner clothes. He had no means of knowing what the others were wearing.
But dinner clothes could hardly be out of place at an informal party.

He was dressed in 15 minutes, except for his tie. Maisie Blaise, always the best, had been managed in 15 minutes more to do a passable
bow. It was another 15 minutes before they drove up.

There were three cars besides Maisie's and William was simultaneously invited to enter all of them.

"You're coming with me," said Maisie Blaise. "I haven't room for more than one and you're chosen."

"I'm flattered," William said to her.

"We're going around to pick up the Greens," Maisie explained.

"It's 10 o'clock now," William said. "And it's eight miles to the club."

"It won't take long," Maisie assured him.

They arrived at the club at 11 and William discovered that the party consisted of the Greens and the Medways and Ann Follett and George Hemenway and Gertrude Barker and Phil. It was precisely the crowd he had always felt to be irritatingly irresponsible. For a moment, William wished he hadn't come. But he did want to dance with Maisie Blaise.

William found it a curiously upsetting experience. He hadn't danced with anyone for a long time. He had supposed that putting one's arm around a girl in dancing was a formal convention, like shaking hands. But he was curiously embarrassed in putting his arm around Maisie Blaise. He wanted to and he was afraid to.

He danced a dozen dances with Maisie Blaise. He suddenly realized it was late.

"Yes—Bill," said Maisie.
William colored. He had not meant to call her Maisie. He never had called her anything but Mrs. Blais-
dell.

"It's 10 o'clock," he said.
"O. Maisie said, 'It's time for supper.'"

It was half-past two when the supper was over, and the party began to break up. Maisie couldn't at first find the key to her car. And when she did the battery refused to turn over the engine. The rest had gone on ahead. William dug the crank out of the tool box and started the engine.

"It's raining," Maisie said, as the car moved off.

"Yes," William agreed.

"I'm afraid we're in for a wetting."

"No harm done if we are," William said lightly. He was sitting beside Maisie Blaise, his shoulder just touching hers, and he cared nothing whatever for a bit of rain.

Uncommon Sense

By John Blake.

The Clock Is Your Friend

YOU cannot see time, but you can see the clock, which is the measure of time.

Watch it, and keep up with it.
Watch it not with the desire to see it point to a "quitting time," but with the fear that the hands will point to
"quitting time" before you have done
the work you ought to have done in a stated period.

Allot your hours of work liberally to yourself. By liberality to yourself
we mean with a liberal allotment of work.

Say that in an hour you will get just so much accomplished, and more, if there is any spare time at the end of that hour.

THE clock is your friend. It tells you just how fast your life is slipping away. You can decide whether you are doing or have done as much as you ought to in the spaces between the hour marks on the dial.

When the real time for rest comes,
rest—or play. But while you are young you can afford to postpone that time, to put in an extra hour or two every day, and to use the time
for working so that more of it is lost.

Most of us dispose of about 20 per cent of our working time in talking or idling or doing things that are absolutely useless.

Yet these all take part of our time,
part of the life that is given to us
and in this world at least we each have one life.

THE man who is economical of time is the man who has both time and money when he wants to retire.

He is the man who can enjoy a longer vacation, and get more out of it, because he has not taken his vacation piecemeal during his working hours.

He keeps an eye on the clock, and notes the passing hours. If one of them or a part of them slip by without accomplishment, he seeks to pack more accomplishment into the hours of the next day.

He knows that time lost must be made up immediately, or it will be lost forever. And he knows that little time is given to any of us to be lost.

The clock ticks off the years as it ticks off the minutes. It is the friend and monitor of us all. Watch it and use it, and it will prove one of the best friends you have had in this life.

Spice Pineapple Compote

EITHER the fresh or canned fruit
may be used. If the former, sieve with a very little sugar and water to nearly cover until the fruit is tender. Then add for each cupful and a half of the fruit and juice six whole cloves, two blades of mace, an inch piece of stick cinnamon, a dusting of grated nutmeg and half a cupful of loganberry juice. Simmer for 15 minutes longer after the spices are added and let cool. Remove the spices before serving.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

What Should Peter Rabbit Do?

When in doubt just what your part Heed the promptings of your heart.

—Peter Rabbit.

"CAN it be," thought Peter Rabbit, "that Longlegs the Heron
is going to try again to catch Grandfather Frog? He has been trying ever since I first made the acquaintance of either of them. I should think he would know by this time that it is useless to spend his time that way. He is merely wasting it. Perhaps, after all, he isn't after Grandfather Frog, but hopes to catch a foolish young frog. I'll just hide over there, where I can see all that happens."

So Peter in his turn crept forward
very quietly, taking the greatest care not to make the least sound and keeping as close to the ground as he could. So he gained the bank of the Smiling Pool just where the lily pads were and peeped over. Long-legs hadn't seen him. Longlegs was too intent on what he was doing to see anything else.

Just below, seated on one of the big, green lily pads, was Grandfather Frog. He was back to Peter and it was quite evident that he was enjoying his part as leader of the Frog
chorus. "Chug-urum, chug-urum, chug-urum," he kept saying over and over in his great, deep voice, and he was so busy about it that he wasn't watching out for danger.

But what Peter noticed right away
was that Grandfather Frog wasn't sitting on his favorite lily pad, which was out in such deep water that Longlegs never could reach there.
Instead, he was sitting on a lily pad close to shore. If Longlegs should get behind him he certainly would catch Grandfather Frog.

Peter turned to watch Longlegs.
Step by step, with long pauses between, Longlegs was drawing near.
Each foot was put down so carefully that there wasn't the faintest sound. His eyes were fixed on Grandfather Frog, and at the least hint that Grandfather Frog was going to look about with his big, goggle eyes Longlegs was as motionless as if he couldn't move. Whenever Grandfather Frog stopped saying
"chug-urum," Longlegs would stand perfectly still. When Grandfather Frog would begin again Longlegs
would move ahead with those slow, careful steps.

"What should Peter do? Should he warn Grandfather Frog? He knew that it was the law of Old Mother Nature that Longlegs should hunt Frogs and that the Frogs should watch out for him. He knew that Longlegs had a right to Grandfather Frog if he could catch him.
Longlegs had as much right as anyone to live, and Frogs were food for him. Without Frogs and Fish he would starve."

Perhaps after all Grandfather
Frog did see Longlegs and was merely waiting until the last minute. Or, if he didn't see him yet, perhaps he would. If he should warn Grandfather Frog it would make Longlegs very angry, and Peter didn't feel like quarrelling with anybody. He was tempted to steal away and leave Grandfather Frog and Longlegs just as if he hadn't been there at all.
Then if anything happened it wouldn't be his fault.

But wouldn't it? If anything did happen he would always know that he might have prevented it. So Peter didn't steal away. He remained right there. Nearer and nearer came Longlegs the Heron. Louder and louder sang Grandfather Frog.

"Chug-urum, chug-urum, chugurum, chug-urum," said Grandfather Frog.

"What shall I do? What shall I do? What shall I do?" said Peter over and over to himself.

PINK SALMON CHOWDER

ONE small can pink salmon, 1
small onion, 1 pint milk, 1 medium-sized potato, 4 pound salt Pork, 2 crackers, salt and pepper to taste. Remove salmon from can and break fish into pieces. Dice the potato and cut pork and onion into half-inch dice. Put pork and onion into pan and fry quickly, until they are a light brown. Place potato, figure and onion in a large saucepan, dust with salt and pepper. Cover the whole with boiling water and let the mixture simmer for 20 minutes.
Add pint of milk and two finely broken crackers. Serve in soup plates.

CREAMED CODFISH

add two tablespoons flour, a pinch of paprika, and a little salt.
Bark blend well. Add 1 1/2 cups milk and cook until smooth and creamy, stirring constantly. Season with a few drops of onion juice and a pinch of bay leaf if desired. (The bay leaf should be removed before serving.) Add two cups fish flakes, reheat and serve on buttered toast.

FABLES FOR THE FAIR

The Old-Fashioned Girl

By Marguerite Moore Marshall

I HAVE received a letter
From a young man who signs himself "F. B. W."

And this is what he writes:
"I am 20, well educated, well traveled,
And successful in my business.
So that I can well support a household."

But to what purpose?
The young woman of today
Thinks more of her own pleasures
And the effects produced by her new costumes.

Than of her heart and home.
Many will say that the old-fashioned girl exists—
But she is few and far between—
So much so as to be almost invisible.
I am pretty young to be crabbed;
But I suppose I am!"

No, "F. B. W.," you're not crabbed;
You're just a little HABIT-
You have a touch of the madness
from which ever so many modern young men are suffering—
You see a mirage!

It is a mental picture of a sweet young thing in a long-skirted
white muslin frock.
With a pale blue sash and nothing
showing below the collar bone.

Who sits at one end of the parlor
sofa, while you sit at the other.
And listens, with vague sweetness,
to the words of wit and wisdom
that fall from your lips.

And looks down, modestly, into her white muslin lap.
And blushes at five-minute intervals—
(She never even HEARD of a "permanent blush.")

And presently serves you with cake
and lemonade of her own manufacture.
And shows touching gratitude when you produce a 25-cent box of candy.

WHAT did you say? There ISN'T any such box?
Neither is there any such girl!
And the point is that, if she existed,
She would bore you and every other modern young man.

To swift flight and never a return!
After ONE evening, she would occupy that parlor sofa ALONE.
Sufficient unto the day is the GIRL thereof.

She is the supply that always equals
the demand.
If the modern young man really WANTED old-fashioned propriety,
instead of pep.

He'd get it—but he doesn't!
He wants a short-skirted, slinky, sophisticated young person.
Who can motor in a swim, hike, play
tennis and "rag" with him.

Accomplishments at which the "sweet, old-fashioned girl" would be an utter dub!
And after all, the girl of today is different from the girl of yesterday in BEHAVIOR?

One put powder on her hair—the other puts powder on her nose.
One puts patches on EAR her lips to make them look redder.
One puts rouge ON her lips for the same sinful purpose!

Styles differ—wiles are the same.
And who bore he SAYS, the 1921
man proves by his acts
That he prefers the 1921 style in girls—
It's his own!

MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY
By James J. Montague.

TO THE LOSER BELONGS THE MORALS.
Carpenter was morally the victor over Dempsey.—G. B. Shaw.

I made a small bet on a pony
Which seemed—for the nonce—indisposed,
For he slackened his pace at the start of the race
And sat on his haunches and dozed.
I tried to collect on the wager,
As George Bernard Shaw would have done,
But my bookmaking friend could not quite comprehend
The fact that I'd morally won.

A grim visaged motor policeman
Came hurrying up on my trail
As homeward I sped—and the magistrate said:
"Ten dollars, or five days in jail!"
And when I defended my action
In the manner of George Bernard Shaw,
The Court couldn't see any sense in the plea
That I'd morally vanquished the law.

As a lad I attempted to wallop
A youth nearly double my size,
And found I could not, when I speedily got
A couple of shiny black eyes.
My ears were a curious purple,
My nose had been brutally bashed,
And my cheeks were contused—yet the victor refused
To admit he was morally thrashed.

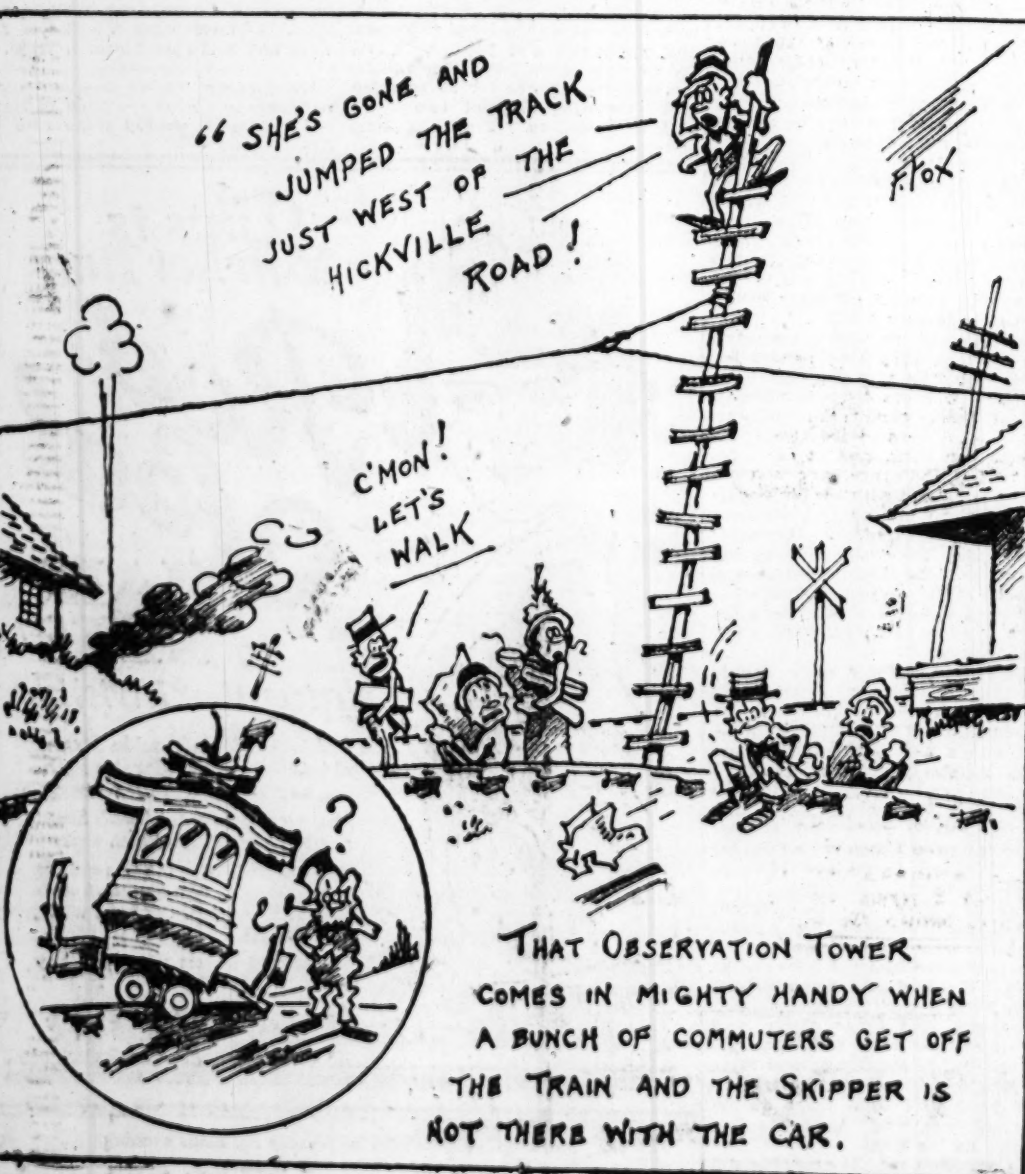

Hereafter, in bets or in battles,
Whatever George Bernard may say,
If I have at the start any voice in the part
That I shall be destined to play,
If the outcome shall lie in my keeping
To win or to lose, I predict,
In spite of my awe for the shrewd Mr. Shaw,
That I'm going to get morally licked!

What Happened Next?

A woman on her first railway trip noticed the communication cord overhead, so she gave it a pull with her umbrella. The whistle sounded, the brakes were put on, and the train began to slacken its speed. Presently the guard appeared and asked, "Who pulled the cord?"

"I did," replied the woman, meekly. "Well, what do you want?" "Some ham sandwiches and a cup of tea, please,"—Edinburg Scotsman.
